SEE FLOATING OF BOND

German Obligation First Must Be Fixed—America May Take Cash

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—(AP)—A few days S. Parker Gilbert, agent-general of reparations, whose final report has just been made public, will interview high officials of the American government. He will have a voice in the selection of experts for the new international committee which is to complete the Daves plan. Mr. Gilbert has been interviewing the heads of the governments of Great Britain, France and Germany and has the whole reparations problem at his fingertips. He does not indicate the terms of a settlement, but he is confident of the formula that shall be applied.

The first step is the appointment of America experts to sit with the experts of other nations. This has been arranged but the personnel is not yet chosen. President Coolidge insists that the actual appointment shall be made by the allied governments so as to reserve to America some freedom of action as to the agreement on which the experts shall decide.

The next step will be for the experts to fix the amount that Germany shall pay hereafter, thus removing some of the vague and uncertain clauses of the original Daves plan. When this sum is fixed, the effort will be made to fix an international bond issue. Then it will be time for the United States government to decide whether it will take cash for some of the war debts.

IS UP TO CONGRESS

This is something Congress must decide. At present there is no favorable sentiment for such a step but there is no telling what the mood of the world will be when once the reparations indebtedness has been definitely fixed and the allies come forward with a concrete program for settling their debts to the United States with the proceeds of their expected bond issue.

This much is certain—while the matter is in the bargaining stage, the United States will keep hands off, neither indicating how much Germany should be obliged to pay or how much the United States would take in a cash settlement on war debts. The fixing of the German debt is regarded here as not a political but an economic matter based on German capacity to pay. If that capacity is properly measured a loan can be floated based on it and the largest amount possible would then be realized from the proceeds. It will remain for the United States to say whether the sum offered to the United States ultimately is all that the question then is not only how much will the allies receive from Germany but how much in addition can the allies themselves be expected to pay.

Meanwhile the United States will lend moral support to the effort to find an economic solution and S. Parker Gilbert will find the government here very alert to the possibilities but noncommittal as to the decisions which are properly to be left to the experts to make.

GOES TO PRISON FOR ASSAULT 2 YEARS AGO

Racine—(AP)—A two-year fight since the end of the municipal court here indicted Wednesday when William Russell was resented to Judge E. R. Burgess, on a charge of assault. Russell was taken to the state prison at Waupun Friday where he will serve from one to three years.

On Dec. 31, 1926, Dennis Murphy, garageman, was driving over a railroad crossing in an automobile when the machine struck Russell, who was the watchman employed at the crossing. After Murphy's car had struck him, Russell's body was thrown to the ground. He was then taken to the hospital where he remained for several days. He was then taken to the state prison at Waupun Friday where he will serve from one to three years.

No Action Likely For Farm Bill

House Rules Chairman Does Not Expect Vote During This Session

Washington—(AP)—A belief that there is little prospect of enactment of farm relief legislation by the house at this session was expressed to President Coolidge Thursday by Chairman Snell of the house rules committee.

Mr. Snell, whose committee largely determines the order in which legislation comes before the house, said the president made no comment on his statement.

Republican leaders in both house and senate are at odds as to whether farm legislation should be considered now or held over until the Hoover administration takes office.

To Mr. Hoover, who will arrive here Sunday from his Latin American tour, leaders look for at least a partial answer to the farm relief question. While the agricultural group in the house are opposing all moves for action at this session, Chairman McNary, of the senate agriculture committee, has introduced a marketing measure which has received the indorsement of Secretary Jardine.

This has failed to convince such Hoover campaigners as Borah of Idaho, and Brookhart of Iowa, that farm relief should be acted on this session and they want an early special session to grapple with this task. Thus, many leaders are in a quandary, despite administration approval of the McNary bill, and they are hoping that Mr. Hoover's wishes one way or the other may be gained during his stay in the capital. The McNary bill, which indicated how ever, that will make no recommendations for legislation until after his inauguration.

BOUNDARY DISPUTE STEP NEARER PEACE

Bolivia Accepts Proposed Protocol of Conciliation
With Paraguay

Washington—(AP)—Bolivia's acceptance, with some slight changes, of the draft protocol of conciliation of the Bolivia-Paraguay dispute was communicated to Washington Thursday and a meeting of the special Pan-American conference committee handling it was called at once.

Bolivian Minister De Medina was informed by his government that the protocol should be revised in some degree, but he declined to discuss the proposed changes.

While it may have no direct bearing on peace efforts, there was surprise Wednesday when it was reported that Argentina had refused to take part in the conference's peace efforts. Under the protocol, a mediation tribunal composed of nine judges would be named to investigate the border clashes between Paraguayan and Bolivian troops. Five neutral nations would have a representative on this tribunal and Argentina was expected to be one of these, though she was not represented at the conference.

The United States, Cuba, Uruguay and Brazil are expected to be the other four nations, despite the fact that Brazil has not been officially heard from. Mexico or Panama, may be invited to take the place refused by Argentina.

OFFERS $25,000 FOR DRY LAW REPEAL PLAN

New York—(AP)—William Randolph Hearst, publisher, who Wednesday announced a prize of $25,000 for the best plan to repeal the eighteenth amendment, Thursday sent a telegram to W. C. Durant, who created a $25,000 prize for the best method of enforcing the amendment, saying that "they were not so far apart as might seem at first glance."

The telegram was in response to one sent to the publisher by Mr. Durant in which he had believed great good would come out of a public discussion stimulated by the prize offer.

Mr. Hearst said he had been a crusader in the temperance movement more than 30 years but he did not believe prohibition was the intelligent and practicable way to promote the cause. Criminal conditions created by the dry law demanded a better plan, he said.

"DOUBLE CROSSING" IS CHARGED IN DREHER CASE

New Orleans, La.—(AP)—In an interview given to the New Orleans states, Lieutenant Governor Paul N. Cyr, a member of the state pardon board, said Thursday that Governor Long had "double crossed" him in refusing to grant commutation in the case of the LeBour-Dreher case and that the hanging of this man and woman would be "judicial murder."

WOMAN FLIER SETS RECORD FOR HER SEX

Question Mark Going Good on Refueling Trip—Tuxhorn Effort Fails

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles.—The third day of the refueling endurance flight by the army's monoplane Question Mark began at 7:26 Thursday morning, just after it had taken on a new supply of fuel from Refueling Plane No. 1.

The plane took the air at 7:26 a. m. Jan. 1.

Reports of fog over San Diego forced the plane to keep within a short distance of its base here late Wednesday night, and although the weather was said to be clearing to the south Thursday morning, the Question Mark kept between here and the San Fernando valley.

About an hour and a half of Refueling Plane No. 2 was necessitated early Thursday when the Question Mark soared over the airport and dropped a signal calling for fuel.

Lieutenant Odas Moon, pilot of the refueling plane, lost contact in his first attempt and after landing took off again to carry 100 gallons up to the ship. He said he found the air extremely rough.

At 8:45 Wednesday night the Question Mark surpassed the time record set in the only previous American refueling plane, lost contact in his record of 27 hours, 15 minutes was made in 1923 by Lieutenants Lowell Smith and Paul Richter in a flight over Rockwell field, San Diego, the southern tip of the current flight which is along a 125.5 mile course. The present record was set by Bobbie Trout triumphs.

Los Angeles—An 18-year-old Los Angeles girl aviator stepped into the limelight Thursday holding a new endurance flight record for women. She is Miss Bobbie Trout, who maneuvered a tiny plane above Los Angeles Wednesday for 12 hours and 11 minutes.

Miss Trout's record-breaking flight, which eclipsed that of 8 hours and 6 minutes made in New York Dec. 20 by Viola Gentry, ended at 6:38 Wednesday evening when she made a graceful night landing at Metropolitan airport and died a neat job of keeping away from a crowd of admirers who swarmed onto the field to welcome her.

Miss Trout had but one and one half gallons of gasoline in her plane when she landed. She took off with 55 gallons and announced that she would stay up until fuel shortage forced her to descend.

PLANE IS DISQUALIFIED

Marshall, Mo.—(AP)—Although failing to break the world's refueling endurance flight record in their tiny open cockpit monoplane, Blaine M. Tuxhorn and Leonard Rhiner Thursday laid claim to another world's record—that of staying aloft nearly 11 hours through refueling from the ground.

Inadvertently disqualified in their effort to exceed the present record of 50 hours and 7 minutes the pilots, nevertheless claimed a thorough and satisfactory tryout of a synchronized refueling catapult perfected by Tuxhorn, which he believes will be used successfully by air mail planes in taking on mail at non-stop points.

Rhiner was at the controls when the plane accidentally touched the earth. Although observers did not see the landing wheels spin, Tuxhorn, the chief pilot, realized his craft had been disqualifying and brought it down.

About 17 gallons of gasoline remained when the ship landed. A 25-gallon supply was in the tanks at the takeoff and the 60-horsepower Leblond motor consumed less than four gallons hourly during flight. The pilots said they did not suffer from the low temperature while aloft and but for the accident believed they could have stayed up another two days.

Tuxhorn's synchronized catapult is electrically operated to hurl the fuel supply container into the air when the pick up is made, giving it momentum to offset the jerk of the plane.

PROPOSES INCOME TAX
FOR BUILDING PROGRAM

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Proposal that the state collect from every person who pays a federal income tax an amount equal to 5 per cent of that levy for state building purposes, was made by Governor Fred W. Green in his message to the fifty-fifth Michigan legislature Thursday. It has been estimated the plan would yield more than $5,000,000 a year.

Shipping World Watches St. Louis-O'Fallon Case

Washington—(AP)—A nine-mile railroad Thursday threw before the supreme court a challenge of the interstate commerce commission's valuation methods while the railroad and shipping world looked up on the impending battle as one of the most important in the history of American transportation.

The St. Louis and O'Fallon railroad came into court to argue its contention that the commission's procedure in attempting to recapture excess earnings was invalid. Three men who served in the cabinet of Chief Justice Taft while Mr. Taft was president are among the counsel in the case—Walter L. Fisher, George W. Wickersham, and Charles Nagel. Fisher and Wickersham are on the side of the government, while Nagel is a member of the railroad's counsel. No controversy in recent years has attracted wider attention in business circles where the controlling influence of valuation as the basis for government regulation of rates is of vital importance. Recognizing the magnitude of the issue, the court set aside six and a quarter hours for argument, and, in compliance with a senate resolution, permitted Donald Richberg, general counsel for the national conference on valuation of American railroads, to file a brief and to participate in the oral discussion.

Among lawyers in the case, there is a sharp difference of opinion as to whether the railroad, in view of the lower court decision in favor of the government, can present a case which brings a sweeping decision on the whole valuation fabric of the commerce clauses.

Government add commission counsel in their briefs asserted that should the railroad succeed in its contention with regard to the method to be followed in the valuation of its property for rate-making and other regulatory purposes, there would be a marked increase in railroad rates generally, but this was flatly denied by the railroad, which declared that rates were necessarily limited by what the traffic could bear.

Delaney To Face Trial On Jan. 21

Green Bay Officer Is Bound Over as Accessory Before the Fact

Green Bay—(AP)—Elan Delaney, youthful Green Bay police officer, was bound over for trial as an accessory before the fact in the $40,000 Farmers Exchange bank robbery after a preliminary hearing in municipal court Thursday morning, where one of the confessed robbers testified he was the "master mind" of the affair.

Alvin Schumert, 23, De Pere, who already has pleaded guilty to complicity in the robbery and is awaiting sentence, was the only witness at the hearing where Delaney's trial was set for Jan. 21.

Schumert testified that for three weeks prior to the robbery he and Delaney had had meetings and that two nights before the robbery Delaney drew for him a plan of the bank's interior. Tilla, he said, he, Delaney, "Musky" Noel, who is sought as the other robber of the bank and Byron LaDuke, who has pleaded guilty to receiving $200 of the loot, drove by the institution.

CUT DOWN AMOUNT

He testified it had been arranged that Delaney should receive $5,000 of the loot, but this was contingent on obtaining $100,000 or more. Since they obtained only $40,000 Delaney was given $2,500 he said.

Two days after the robbery, Schumert testified, he met Delaney and the latter said to him, "don't say anything now," and that evening said, "it's getting pretty hot; we'd better leave town."

The following morning, he said, Delaney, himself and LaDuke drove to the farm of Delaney's father-in-law near Poyette and there hid part of the money. Noel already had separated from them, he said, leaving after he retrieved the money from its original hiding place near Suamico, north of here.

THREE WENT SOUTH

The next day, the father-in-law, George Thiesen, the witness testified, drove him and LaDuke to Madison, where they hid the money. Delaney, eventually to return here again where they were captured.

Delaney, policeman on the bank beat, furnished the hurlap sacks. Schumert said, in which the loot from the robbery was taken from the bank.

Some of the damaged money, the court was told, was left with Thiesen. Officers went to the Thiesen farm Thursday.

Both Schumert and Delaney appeared composed when in court Thursday. Schumert is to come up before the same court Friday for sentence by Municipal Judge M. J. Monahan, but it was thought likely a postponement might be taken.

Army Appropriation Bill Is Given To Lower House

Washington—(AP)—Carrying large increases for flood control, army pay, aviation expansion and new construction at military posts, the army appropriation bill was reported Thursday to the house.

Calling for expenditures of $425,428,417 by the war department during the next fiscal year, the measure was the fifth of the nine regular annual supply bills to come before the house this session, four having been passed before the holidays.

The total, providing $224,222,515 for national defense and $199,645,600 for non-military purposes, represents an increase of $35,111,774 over the current fiscal year appropriation and an increase of $1,545,000 over budget estimates.

The largest military item in the bill is $123,550,308 for pay of the army. The measure contemplates no change in the enlisted strength of the army, now 115,750, but would raise the officer strength from 11,735 to approximately 12,000.

FOUR SLAYERS ARE PARDONED FROM PRISON

"Poison Widow" and Three Other Convicts Are Granted Clemency

Madison—(AP)—Myrtle Schauder, Whitewater, "poison widow" Thursday was given a commutation of sentence by Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, through which she will be released from the state prison immediately.

The governor also pardoned George Ratscheck, 72, Joseph Jorde, 59, and Henry Liso, 63, all convicted of murder.

Mrs. Schauder was convicted of manslaughter and attempted murder on four counts in February, 1924, more than a year after the death of her husband. His body was discovered and traces of poison were found. Mrs. Schauder was accused of conspiring with Ernest Kufahl, a roomer in the Schauder home, to poison the husband and the children. The children, however, were saved from death by their mother, shortly after poisoned candy had been given to them. She was convicted in Walworth circuit court and given three sentences that totaled 10 years.

Governor Zimmerman Thursday granted her conditional pardon and paroled her to Dr. Otis M. Johnson, Fond du Lac, a Methodist minister, in whose home Mrs. Schauder will live for a short time, until she goes to visit her daughter at Union Grove. The other children, now grown, are a boy in the state university, another in Mount university and a girl at Dausmann.

KILLED WITH AXE

Ratscheck was convicted of first degree murder for killing his wife with an axe near Redsville. He was sentenced in the circuit court of Manitowish in June, 1883, to life imprisonment. He has served 45 years of his sentence, having been on parole from the institution for 22 months at one time. He now plans to visit a daughter in Kaukauna, then enter employment at Green Bay.

Jorde, born in Prussia, came to this country when a young man and was convicted in municipal court for Milwaukee co. of first degree murder in June, 1903. He has since maintained his innocence of the killing of Ed Straus, a Milwaukee saloon and with another man, taking Straus to his nearby shack where they put him to bed. Straus was later found dead, and Jorde, walking downtown, was arrested. He was convicted principally on testimony of a rag peddler who occupied an adjoining cell. He said Jorde had told him to go to a barn barn after his release and get $50, presumably taken from Straus.

NOT CERTAIN OF GUILT

Governor Zimmerman pardoned Jorde partly on a statement of the prosecuting attorney, that he was not positive that Jorde was guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Liso pleaded guilty in November, 1914, to killing Petra Solberg, his paramour. They were employed at the home of S. T. Hyde in La Crosse, Wis., and domestic, respectively, and as a result of their intimate relations, despite the fact that Liso was married, they were negotiating a financial settlement while driving in the country outside of La Crosse. At the time Liso was to have paid Miss Solberg $200. They entered into an agreement and Liso struck her with a tool with which he was repairing the automobile. During the 14 years in prison he had been a trustee for 12½ years.

POSTAL CLERK HELD AS "POISON PEN" ARTIST

New York—(AP)—Accused of sending threatening letters to many persons prominent in public life, Abram Rosenberg, 27-year-old postal clerk, was being held by postoffice authorities Thursday. They said more than 1,500 threatening letters were found in his home.

Victims of the letters, a man of which continued an acid war, included the name of William Brewster, secretary of the Audubon society, a charge of sending the letters. He was held in jail there since he was arrested. Later Rosenberg was released, but the case was not settled.

SNOW GIVES YOUTHS CHANCE TO TRY SLEDS

Milwaukee—(AP)—The snow that fell here Wednesday has been a boon for so that the city's youth are now sliding a winter sport. The snow slide was about 12 inches deep.

According to W. P. Schwartz, weather forecaster, snow was general throughout the state Wednesday night and Thursday and will continue falling, with colder weather coming toward night.

DEATH SENTENCE AGAIN ASKED FOR RONGETTI

Chicago—(AP)—With its witnesses scattered, the state will reiterate its demand for a death verdict for Dr. Amante Rongetti, whose second trial for murder got under way Thursday.

Three state witnesses, who testified during the first trial when a jury convicted Rongetti of murdering Miss Loretta J. Ender, who died following an illegal operation, again will give testimony. Two others, both former nurses, have not been found.

Rongetti, who had been sentenced to die in the electric chair, was granted a new trial by the supreme court. The jury was selected Wednesday in an unusually short time for major cases in Cook co.

Plane Takes Anti-Toxin To 2 Posts

Daring Pilot and Passenger Hop Off to Lone Canadian Zones

Edmonton, Alta.—(AP)—An airplane carrying a supply of anti-toxin to two diphtheria-stricken trading posts 600 miles away in the frozen wilderness.

Captain "Wop" May, former Canadian army pilot, with Vic Horner as passenger, hopped off Wednesday with 600,000 units of antitoxin in response to an appeal for help from settlements at Fort Vermilion and Little Red River.

The pilot of the Mercury plane and his passenger faced the task of locating the posts in the snow-covered forests and landing where no plane has been known to have flown before.

The appeal for anti-toxin sent out by Dr. H. A. Hannan, provincial health officer in the north, arrived New York's day. It was dated Dec. 18, and had been brought 167 miles by dog to the nearest telegraph office at Peace River.

Dr. Hannan said the factor in charge of the Hudson Bay company post at Vermilion river had died of diphtheria and that an epidemic was feared among the 200 inhabitants of the two posts.

Captain May took off without knowing whether there would be enough gasoline at the posts to bring his plane out, whether a suitable place for landing could be found at either of the stations.

4 SENTENCED FOR BREAKING DRY LAW

Buffalo-co Men Must Serve
6 Months—Embezzler 8
Months

Madison—(AP)—Four men, arrested on federal warrants charging conspiracy to violate federal prohibition laws, were sentenced to six months each in the house of correction, when they pleaded guilty before Judge Claude Z. Luse in U. S. District court Wednesday.

The men, Roy Lage, Alexander Polowski, Ralph West and Henry Fries, were arrested last July after a raid by federal prohibition officers on a farm in the town of Arcadia, Buffalo co., which disclosed one of the largest stills ever found in the western Wisconsin district.

Martin Carr and Louis Verner, arrested during the same raid, forfeited cash bonds of $1,000 each when they failed to appear.

Thomas Anglin, London, was sentenced to two months in the house of correction for violating the national prohibition law, and John and Helen Grady of Portage co. were fined $25 each upon pleading guilty to violating the federal prohibition law.

Joseph W. Turner, former employee of the Lanaster postoffice, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction, when he pleaded guilty to embezzlement of postal funds.

Badger Senator Says Brit-

CRUISER BILL UP NEXT

Both Bills Have Coolidge Backing and Prompt Disposal Is Expected

Washington—(AP)—A second resolution of reservation to the Kellogg treaty was placed before the senate Thursday by Senator Blaine, Republican of Wisconsin, who proposed that Great Britain's correspondence in connection with the treaty negotiations be not considered as allowing that nation any "reserve" in its adherence.

back to work Thursday after a 10 day's Christmas holiday—the senate to face the fight over the Kellogg anti-war treaty and the bill to build more cruisers and the house to receive from its appropriation's committee a measure calling for $435,000,000 to run the war department next year.

This unusual situation in which a treaty to renounce war is rubbing elbows with measures for the improvement of the national defense seemed not to perturb members of congress and it was agreed that the naval measure would be laid aside by the senate while consideration was being given to the treaty to renounce war as an instrument of policy. It was apparent also that a high administration backing.

EXPECT ARMED BILL PASSAGE

Likewise in the house there was no doubt that the war department appropriation bill, which among other items carried $50,000,000 for rivers and harbors development, would be pushed through in the same orderly manner which the house employs in passing these supply measures, and sending them to the senate.

One of the first measures introduced when the senate got under way was a resolution by Senator Jones, Republican of Washington, who asked that an investigation be made of prohibition enforcement. Representative Laguardia, Republican, New York, started the house session by asking that the congressional record in the future be published on paper made of corn stalks.

Committees on both sides of the capitol were inactive for the most part.

With a preponderance of strength, Senator Borah, a staunch under-standing Wednesday with Chairman Hale of the naval committee, sponsor of the cruiser bill, whereby he would bring the treaty up and keep it up until voted upon.

The Idaho senator intends to make that move late Thursday after senator Hale in calling up the naval bill, gave a speech asking for its early enactment. As a result of the understanding, opponents of the naval measure are prepared to drop threats of a filibuster against it and let it be voted upon after the treaty is acted upon.

AVOID FILIBUSTER

Senator Norris of Nebraska, a leader of the Republican independents who are opposing the navy measure, has given the word that if the senate first votes upon the treaty he will not employ obstructionist tactics against the naval bill although he intends to fight it. It is believed his influence will halt a filibuster against the naval measure.

Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, stands out as the main threat to the Kellogg treaty and to the agreement which appears to have cleared the way to vote on both the treaty and the naval bill. He is going to wage a battle against the league of nations—Senator Borah of Idaho—leading the forces for the treaty. The senate is looking forward to this clash between two of its foremost debaters who usually have been found on the same side in the past, despite their party affiliations.

Senator Reed is in a position to complicate the program if he is able to get the final report on the investigation into the primary campaign of Senator-Elect Vane of Pennsylvania, before the senate in the near future. The Vane contest, under senate rules, would have a precedent over both the treaty and the naval bill and a stubborn new is involved in that contest. However, there is no definite indication that the Missourian will do that or will be able to get a final report from his campaign investigating committee in time to do that.

Reduce Assessments For Wisconsin-Ave Pavement

COST IS CUT 33 CENTS BY CITY COUNCIL

Amendment to 1927 Resolution Fixing Pavement Width Charge Is Adopted

Pavement assessments against Wisconsin-ave residents will be reduced 33 cents a foot, as a result of action taken Wednesday night by the common council.

The reduction was made when the council adopted a motion introduced by Alderman Phillip Vogt of the Sixth ward amending a resolution passed by the council in 1927 fixing the maximum width of pavements at which property owners could be assessed at 14 feet on each side. The amendment decreases the maximum width for assessment to 12 feet. The amendment was adopted by a 7 to 5 vote. Assessments for the Wisconsin-ave pavement were calculated on a charge of $4.10 a foot. The cost for 12 feet would have amounted to $28.72 a foot. This citizens on that street receive a credit of 33 cents a foot.

Alderman Vogt, who has held that the assessments on Wisconsin-ave were too high, several weeks ago urged that charges be made for only 12 feet. The assessments were based on a width slightly under 14 feet. Alderman Vogt pointed out that the width charges had not been the same on all streets, and the matter was referred to the board of public works with instructions to report at a later meeting.

Speaking for the board, Mayor A. C. Rule Wednesday night told the council that it had adopted a resolution in 1927 fixing the maximum width for assessments at 14 feet, and that the board consequently could do more about the matter.

The proposal consequently was referred back to the council with no report.

CHARGES HIGH COST

In introducing his amendment, Alderman Vogt pointed out that a resolution is actually only a temporary measure.

"Wisconsin-ave residents do not believe they should be charged as much as they have been because the street is a state highway," he said. "They believe the same assessment schedule should prevail there as on Cherry and Richmond-sts when they were paved."

The proposed amendment was opposed by Alderman Charles Thompson.

"The resolution adopted by the council in 1927 was intended to meet just such a problem as we are facing tonight," he said. "It provides for a maximum width for which property owners could be assessed of 28 feet, or 14 feet on each side. In cases where the width of the pavement exceeds 28 feet, the difference will be paid by the city."

"The idea embodied in this amendment of Alderman Vogt's is wrong in principle. It is impossible for us to guarantee what people will pay for their pavements. Labor conditions vary from year to year, and bids for pavements differ. If we permit rebates in this case, we will establish a precedent which may prove troublesome in the future."

Alderman Catlin also said the amendment was not practical and that such action would lead the city into a chain of difficulties.

REBATE COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED BY MAYOR

The tax rebate committee was appointed by Mayor A. C. Rule Wednesday night and approved by the common council. It consists of Aldermen Mark Catlin, George Richard, John Diederich, Phillip Vogt, R. F. McGillan, and Harvey Priebe. The committee will meet early in March, after collection of taxes is completed, to hear complaints of tax payers relative to their assessments. Protests must be entered at the time taxes are paid to the city treasurer.

7 CHILDREN AND 12 GRANDCHILDREN SHARE IN ESTATE

$48,000 Is Willied to Descendants of Mrs. Johanna Fries

Seven children and 12 grandchildren are named as heirs to an estimated $48,000 estate left by Mrs. Johanna Fries according to a will probated in county court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann Wednesday. Final accounting of the estate will not be made until later when the exact amount of the estate will be known. All of Mrs. Fries' estate is in personal property.

Each of the 12 grandchildren will receive $1,000. They are: Dolores, Genevieve, and Florence Kasel, James, June and Donald Weisgerber, Audrey and John Fries, Jr., Roy, Virginia, Helen and Paul Abendroth. In the event of the death of one of the children his inheritance is to be divided equally among his brothers and sisters. Each of the bequests are to be held in trust until their reaches the age of 21.

St. Joseph parish receives $500 under the terms of the will. The balance of the estate is divided equally among seven children, as follows: Mathilda, E. Kasel, Lucia, S. Abendroth, John, William, Frank, Edward and Alvina Weisgerber. P. A. Kornely is named executor.

2ND FALSE FIRE ALARM JOKER IS FINED $50

The second Appleton youth, arrested Wednesday in connection with the turning in a false fire alarm from the Cluderella hall room on New Year's eve, changed his plea of not guilty to guilty in justice court before Judge F. J. Blundey at Menasha Wednesday afternoon and was fined $25 and costs. His companion, another Appleton youth, morning to turning in the alarm, was fined $50 and costs. The second youth was implicated when evidence showed he had changed a coin to get the nickel to pay for the telephone call to the fire department. Both boys were severely reprimanded by the judge.

BLAINE OPPOSES BRITISH CLAUSE IN PEACE TREATY

Badger Senator Says Reservation Is "Another Article X"

Washington, D. C., (AP)—Sen. John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, Thursday took objection, in the form of a senate resolution, to the British reservations to the Multilateral treaty, calling paragraph ten of the reservations "another article X of the Covenant of the League of Nations."

"What Great Britain did not get under the Article X of the League covenant, she now proposes to acquire by grafting upon the Multilateral Treaty, paragraph ten of the British note," he said in introducing his resolution.

He quoted from the British proposal of reservations to the treaty: "x x there are certain regions of the world the welfare and integrity of which constitute the special and vital interest for our peace and safety. His Majesty's government has been at pains to make it clear in these regions cannot be suffered. Their protection against attack is to the British Empire a measure of self-defense. It must be clearly understood that his Majesty's government in Great Britain accept the new treaty upon the distinct understanding that it does not prejudice their freedom of action in this respect. x x x"

Sen. Blaine's resolution read: "That the senate of the United States declare that, in advising and consenting to the Multilateral Treaty it does so with the understanding that said paragraph 10 of the British note shall not imply any admission of any reserve made in connection therewith."

"If America adheres to the peace treaty then we legalize Great Britain's dominion in all the world and we acknowledge that less than 50 million subjects of Great Britain shall have the right to rule over 400 million people without their consent and against their protest," said Sen. Blaine.

This proposed formula of peace stabilizes and legalizes the spoils of war obtained by the greatest empire of the world. It is a one-sided declaration of British policy. By the Kellogg Treaty, America agrees to a decree quieting the title in the name of the British Empire to one-fourth of the world's inhabitable area."

ALDERMAN SUPERVISES SUBWAY DIGGING WORK

Alderman George Brautigan Wednesday night was named by the common council as a committee of one to supervise digging on the Wisconsin-ave subway and direct disposition of the dirt.

When the resolution was introduced by Aldermen R. F. McGillan, it was referred to the committee of the whole, but the committee returned from its meeting without making a report. Alderman Diederich then moved adoption of the resolution. The council vote ended in a 6 to 6 tie and Mayor A. C. Rule cast the deciding vote.

SEEK APPLICANTS FOR POLICE JOBS

Applicants Must Be Under 30, Weigh 175 Pounds and Live in City

The police and fire commission still is seeking applicants to fill jobs on the Appleton police department according to E. A. Schmalz, secretary of the commission.

Recently the common council, at the request of Police Chief George T. Prim and the commission and on recommendation of the police and license committee, voted to add two men to the department. So far, Mr. Schmalz said, only five or six applicants had been received.

As soon as four or five more applications are filed the commission will set a date for examining the applicants. After the list of eligibles has been determined the men for the positions will be chosen by the commission and Chief Prim.

Applicants should be under 30 years of age, be at least five feet, ten inches tall and weigh at least 175 pounds. They must have lived in Appleton for at least three years.

Members of the police commission are: A. G. Koch, chairman; P. H. Ryan, L. O. Wissman, Kurt Koletzke and Mr. Schmalz.

YACHT CLUB MEETING

An important meeting of the Appleton Yacht club will be held at 7:30 Thursday evening at the club house on S. Pierce-ave. After the business session, the members will be entertained at a party.

Awfully Itchy Pimples on Face and Arms. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face and arms were broken out with pimples for about two years. When they first came they were red and hard, and some of them festered and scabbed over leaving my face in blotches. The pimples were awfully itchy and burned, causing me a lot of worry. I used a good many remedies without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Thelma Conley, R. R. 1, Heyworth, Ill., Nov. 9, 1928.

FALLING PIN LIKE CANNON SALVO IN TELEPHONE CO. LAB

BY ISREAL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service
New York — The land of throbbing life and nervous reality, that we are prone to think of as New York, contains an island of dreams and of magic of which few travelers are aware.
 It is Fairyland itself, a modern fairyland, under the reign not of invisible faeries but of stern, reasoning men and women. It is a fairyland, nevertheless, where the unseen is seen, the unheard becomes a thunder-crash and the impossible is accomplished.
 This is the Magic City, strange to relate, one of the greatest scientific institutions in the country—
 Bell Telephone Laboratories.
OUTDO FABLES
 That seems like a cold, harsh drop from the visions of a Fairy City of our younger days to what is just a matter-of-fact workshop for scientific research. But no fairy of our childhood dreams ever waved her wand over such earthen wonders as are accomplished in an orderly, scientific way by the men and women in these laboratories.
 For here, amidst the odors of chemicals and the hum of motors, I experienced wonders actually performed greater than were the mental caprices of a Grimm or an Anderson.
 I saw my voice—saw it, not just heard it—tangling up and down across a screen, as I spoke into an ordinary transmitter. Then I saw my words recorded by the trace of light on a photo film, for refined study by experts in phonetics.
 I watched millions on millions of invisible electrons—those tiniest particles of matter—forming graceful blue curves of light on the end of a vacuum bulb.
 Outside the brick building containing these wonders, horse-drawn trucks clattered over the wide cobblestone street to the docks of ocean liners along the Hudson waterfront across the way. Taxis tooted and ships' sirens shrieked. Inside, I locked myself behind triple-steel doors in a sound-proof quiet room, where the drop of a pin could be detected by a sensitive instrument and shot out like the boom of a gun.
CONTRASTS
 Outside, I could see massive ocean liners at a far distance awaiting their passengers and freight for the next trip across the Atlantic. Inside, I had to peer through a highly sensitive microscope to see the tiny crystals that make up the steel of those ships. Here, it is no uncommon practice to cut a piece of soft metal or wood less than one ten-thousandth of an inch in thickness, or to measure the grains in hard steel to a thickness of a quartermillionth of an inch.
 For in this Fairyland scientists have devised apparatus so highly sensitive that it can measure down to one-billionth of an inch, or a millionth of a degree in temperature.
 It is the finest variation man has ever measured, yet it appears in the motion of a spot of light that can be noticed in an instant.
 Here, as in many other laboratories, men and women play with extremes. They count the invisible atoms in matter, so tiny that 100,- 000,000 of them side by side would take up only an inch of space. They work with air so thin that it is almost a vacuum—almost nothing at all. The same air, condensed into such a heavy state that it becomes a liquid more than 350 degrees below freezing temperature, is to these scientists as commonplace as the milk that is left on our doorsteps each morning.
 Into that extremely cold liquid, the rulers of this scientific fairyland can plunge a red-hot carbon pencil and make it glow with an intense heat.
 A drop of this cold liquid on the skin would make it blister as if scalded by the spark of a white-hot molten metal.
 These are representative of the wonders experienced in this fairyland of science, all produced from cold, logical formulas. Men and women scientists here seek the facts of our existence and try to accommodate them to our everyday lives.
INVISIBLE LIGHT
 We want as much light as possible to see things. They shut off this light and search for things in a form of light that is invisible and harmful to the eye. What is invisible to us they see. What we cannot hear, they hear. What we can't do, they do.
 But not a single wonder they perform is done for fun. Theirs is the business of improving our means of communication—by telephone, by telegraph and cable, by wireless.
 What appears as a marvel to us is merely an experiment toward perfecting our telephone, or speeding up the transmission of messages, or clearing up the air for radio communication.
 Every one of the wonders I saw at these laboratories was part of the great experimental and research equipment needed for this work.
 Many of the men here do not seem

FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color, Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, to be getting anywhere. Day after day, year in and year out, they appear to be playing with freakish devices that show hardly any relationship to telephony or radio.

DAILY DISCOVERIES
 But every day discoveries are made—and from them follow tremendous improvements in telephone, cable and radio transmission. A development may take weeks or years of intensive labor until the final reward comes.
 Thus was television accomplished in these laboratories. Thus were cable messages speeded up to 2,500 letters a minute. Thus was the dial system of telephony developed.

 And in the same serious and patient way were many other improvements made that have saved the people of the United States millions of dollars and many precious seconds in telephoning.
 These material wonders are what the faeries in this magic city have brought us.

REPORT INCREASE OF 33 PER CENT
 IN POPULATION

Appleton Now Has 26,081
 Persons, Newspaper Bureau Finds

The population of Appleton now is 26,081 persons as compared with 19,- 561 persons counted in 1920, by the federal census, an increase of about 33 per cent, according to figures of the Newspaper Feature Bureau, received by Appleton Chamber of Commerce. There are 21,111 persons in the city over ten years of age and 10,979 are workers for gain. Of this number 8,360 are males and 2,619 females.
 Recent figures show that of the 26,081 persons in the city, 12,839 are males and 13,242 females. In 1920 there were 19,561 persons in the city, 9,404 males and 10,157 females. There are now 15,995 persons over 21 years of age in the city, 7,720 males and 7,975 females. Of the 21,111 persons over 10 years of age, 10,460 are males, 10,651 females. There are 10,137 families in the city, it is estimated, as compared with 4,603 when the federal census was taken.
 The survey is based on figures from local factors essential to population growth. Since 1920 there has been an increase of 2,040 births over deaths, a 28 per cent gain in number of voters, 20 per cent gain in number of school children and 59.6 per cent gain in number of domestic water users.

REPAIR WORK ON LOCKS PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Repair work on the second and third Appleton locks is progressing rapidly, according to A. F. Everett, government engineer. Old wood platforms of the locks have been removed, and are being replaced by stone and concrete. It is expected the work will be completed within the next month. Warm weather prevailing here until Tuesday greatly aided construction work, and little difficulty was experienced with ice.

 SPEECH CLASS PLANS

Men interested in the Y. M. C. A.
 Chamber of Commerce public speaking classes are invited to attend a meeting of the committee in charge at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 Tuesday evening Jan. 8, according to G. F. Werner, general secretary of the association. F. M. Ingles, instructor in public speaking classes in former years will discuss the program for the coming year. It is planned to conduct two classes, one for beginners on Tuesday evenings and another for advanced students on Thursday evenings.

Talking films in color were recently shown in London in broad daylight. The screen used was made of especially prepared black silk and sharp images were visible even in strong sunlight.

BULLETIN PRINTED ON CORNSTALK PAPER

A copy of the first chamber of commerce bulletin to be printed on paper made from cornstalks has been received here by Kenneth H.
 Corbett, secretary of Appleton chamber of commerce. The publication from the Danville, Ill. chamber and advertises the fact paper is now being made from the new material. According to the bulletin it will take the supply of cornstalks from 75-000 acres to supply a mill making 100 tons of paper daily for 300 days of the year.
 Although a tablet on a London famous diarist, was born in a house on that site, there is doubt about it.

 No one really knows whether he was born in London or in a Huntingdon-shire town.

OBJECTS TO CHARGES FOR STREET WORK

Residents of Grove-st Claim They Were Not Notified of Opening Proceedings

Neenah—Objection was raised Wednesday evening at the monthly meeting of the city council, by residents on the north end of Grove-st. against their assessments for opening of that street on the north end. They claimed that the opening did not benefit them and that they were not notified of any proceedings by which the action was authorized. It was explained that condemnation proceedings had been conducted by a committee of three appraisers appointed by the court and that the city had nothing whatever to do with it. It appears that only part of the residents on that street had been assessed for the opening three blocks away. The mayor will appoint a committee to confer with the appraisers in an effort to straighten out the situation.

The meeting was attended by all aldermen with exception of Alderman E. C. Arneemann. Monthly reports from the police department, justice, and the poor commission were submitted and approved. Mrs. Bishop, poor commissioner, presented her annual report, outlining what the city did in taking care of its poor during the year. The report showed that 31 families of 53 members had been furnished city aid, 16 families of 57 members had received county aid, and a total of 150 home calls had been made by the commissioner in the city and 50 out side calls had been made in securing information and investigation work. Mrs. Bishop reported 40 families had received assistance from charitable people and that 53 families had received Thanksgiving baskets from the S. A. Cook and city fund. The report gave review work as taking care of delinquent girls who were placed in the state reformatory, incompetent people who had drifted into the city and who had to be cared for both medically and financially and food. The report was accepted and placed on file.

$1,000 FOR ASSOCIATION
A communication from the cemetery commission, asking for an appropriation of $1,000 for the purchase of a piece of land near the sexton's residence was accepted with provision that it is contingent upon the budget. On motion, a room on the second floor of the city hall was set aside for the old residents as a club room for the winter months where they can spend the afternoon at cards and enjoy themselves. Removal of snow from the walks was authorized continued across the slough into the fourth ward instead of stopping at the slough bridge. More time was granted on placing a light at corner of Monroe and Union. Finance committee reported on bills amounting to $41,115.64 which included payment for ornamental light pole for N. Commercial-st, interest on bonds for water works, high school and fire apparatus. The bills were authorized paid.

A resolution was presented and adopted authorizing condemnation proceedings to be started to open Stevens-st. through to Fairview-ave. Drastic steps are to be taken in removing objects stockpiling out of sidewalks such as water pipes, gasoline pipes which have been shortened and allowed to remain above the walks, creating a dangerous place for stumbling and possible spraining ankles. Several of these obstacles have been ordered out but the owners of the walks have not heeded the notices and will have to suffer the consequences it was said. The committee on parks and public buildings reported that the community tree had been removed from Wisconsin-ave. and moved that the lighting equipment be placed in charge of the street commissioner for future use and that said equipment be kept for city purposes only.

LIBRARY CIRCULATED 5,219 BOOKS IN MONTH

Neenah—The total number of books in circulation from the Neenah public library in December, was 5,219, according to the monthly report of Miss Mae Hart, librarian. This is a decrease over the preceding month due to illness and the holiday season. Of the total, 3,077 were taken out by adults and 2,192 by children. There were 396 books taken out by teachers for reference purposes and 99 supplied to school stations. The rural circulation totaled 165 and 21 new names were added to the library list of patrons. Repairs were made on 158 books. The number of readers and visitors to the reference rooms totaled 725, the smallest number in some time.

NEENAH WON'T RAISE LICENSES ON BUSES

Neenah—This city will not raise the license fee on buses, but will keep the figure at $200 for each of five buses operating here on regular schedule on the Kaukauna. Appleton, Menasha, Neenah run. Buses operating extra hour will not be licensed, according to Mayor Sande, who stated that this city would put nothing in the way of the service given the people of Neenah by the buses so long as they pay for the five regular conveyances as it is not only an injustice to the bus owners as an injustice to the people for whom the buses are operated. No action was taken on the license question Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Neenah council.

RURAL ORGANIZATIONS NEED GOOD LEADERS TO SUCCEED

TYPICAL GROUP LIFE IS TRACED IN NEW BULLETIN

Societies Pass Through Four Stages, According to Agricultural Men

BY W. F. WINSEY
Organizations, like individuals, pass through definite life periods. They usually start with a period of stimulation. Then follows rapid rise. Third comes a rather lengthy and a somewhat trying carrying-on period. In which various new plans are tried. Finally comes a period of gradual or sharp decline and complete inactivity. These periods taken together may be considered as the road an organization travels. This in brief is the Introduction to Bulletin 403, "Making Rural Organizations Effective," written by J. H. Kolb and A. F. Wilden, and issued by the experiment station, College of Agriculture.

The purpose of the bulletin is to point out the causes of the "slipping" of rural organizations to supply methods and material to keep them going. Says the bulletin: "Members in over 350 rural organizations reported such problems as 'lack of good leaders,' 'hard to get programs,' 'members lose interest' and 'trouble with groups.' These problems must be overcome if organizations are to be effective. The purpose of this bulletin is to help make this possible. Five methods are suggested, namely, training leaders, planning programs, interesting the members, meeting new needs, and getting along with other groups."

"Most rural organizations depend upon their local officers for guidance and inspiration. These officers are mostly farmers and farm women, and are chosen by the members from among their own group. A considerable amount of promotion comes from outside, but responsibility for keeping the organization going rests upon the local leaders."

MUST FIND LEADERS
"The task of finding local leaders to assume the responsibilities of the organization is not an easy one. Leaders are not found waiting for something to do. They are usually found in connection with some specific task, and are often the busiest persons in the community. Quite often they protect saying that they are 'not qualified' or 'don't know what to do.'"

"A school of methods might well be of a two-day duration and be composed of chosen leaders from all of the rural organizations of a certain area, possibly a county. The leaders and the subjects to be presented at the school can be selected in terms of the definite projects which the organizations wish to promote. For example such a school for rural community organizations was arranged recently to include the following subjects: The Community Emphasis for Modern Agriculture, Planning Successful Programs and Meetings, Recreation and Its Practical Applications, Community Music and Song Leadership, Debate for Rural Organizations, Boys' and Girls' Club Work—Methods and Material, and the County Program."

"Another form of school or conference for special group leaders may be of state-wide or national scope. In plan this is much like the above, except that it is more general in nature. There may be general schools of method for grange lectures, state parent-teachers association conventions, dairy short courses, Gurnsey breeder's conferences, or state schools for nurserymen."

Courses offered in the leadership school of the College of Agriculture include: Agricultural Economics, Family Social Work, Home Economics in Rural Communities, Personality and Social Adjustment, Principles and Practice of Rural Recreation. The bulletin will be very helpful to rural organizations as beside clearing up many knotty problems in the successful management of rural organizations. It presents a number of suggestive or practical programs for meetings."

WATCH STATE CAMPAIGN AGAINST FAKE CURES

"Wisconsin's campaign to outlaw 'remedies that don't remedy, and cures that don't cure' is being watched with interest by stockmen in other states," reports Arlie Mucks, secretary of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association. "The object of the present campaign of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association and the State Veterinary Medical association is to secure legislation making it compulsory that dealers register their products in the state and that they print the common name of each ingredient used in the remedy on the labels. In this way a farmer will know whether he is getting something worthless and will be in a position to know if he could buy the same product in a cheaper form."

Healthiest Youngsters Living Outdoor Lives

Thelma Svarstad, 17, of Brown county, S. D. and William Tobias, 15, of Saginaw county, Mich., chosen the healthiest boy and girl in America.

Chicago — The country's healthiest boy is going to be a boxer, and the healthiest girl is going to teach school — if their plans don't go amiss.

Such are the plans of William Tobias, 15, of Saginaw county, Michigan and Thelma Svarstad, 17, of Brown county, South Dakota, chosen at the seventh annual congress of the 4-H clubs here as the healthiest boy and girl in America. If the ratings given each by the examiners is to be considered, however, the girl ought to be the boxer and the boy the teacher. For Thelma got a health rating of 99 per cent, while "Bill" was pronounced only 97.4 per cent perfect.

That doesn't disturb Bill, he contends. "I'm going to learn all there is to the game of boxing," he says, "and then I hope to make a success of it."

BOY HAS IDEAL HABITS
Bill doesn't dance or smoke and he's in every evening at 9, he says. His daily habits run along the same line.

He rises at 6:30, does a few chores about the farm and then breakfasts on eggs, toast, grapefruit, cereals and milk. The school day takes up the greater part of his time until late afternoon where he contemplates his work about the farm, where he says he gets all the exercise he needs.

His other two meals he says consist of vegetables and fruit, lots of milk and not too much meat. He never uses tea or coffee and never eats to excess.

"In fact I eat anything and like most everything, but I never take too much of anything just because I happen to like it."

Bill is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 130 pounds.

GIRL WALKS AND SWIMS
Thelma, the healthiest girl, is 5 feet 3 1/2 inches tall and weighs 122 pounds. She attends the Northern State Teacher's College in South Dakota and has a class at 8 o'clock in the morning. She says she rises in time to attend this and always manages to get at least eight hours' sleep every night.

She says the most notable things about her diet are an abundance of fruit, not too much sweets, lots of milk and all the exercise she can get in the form of walking and swimming.

"I never won any medals for swimming, in fact I only learned how a year ago, but I believe it is one of the best exercises," Thelma says.

Miss Svarstad was chosen state champion and sent to Chicago to compete with girl representatives from 16 other states.

QUARANTINE RULES FOR RABIES RIGID

Dogs Must Be Kept Tied, Greenville Veterinarian Points Out

BY W. F. WINSEY
Greenville—"Rabies have been developing the past two years in this vicinity and may reach the critical stage at any time," said Dr. E. L. Knapstein, local veterinarian, Friday. "In the last six months an increase in the number of outbreaks has been in evidence, and the towns of Greenville, Center and Ellington have been quarantined by local authorities at the suggestion of a representative of the state."

The rules of the quarantine are ironclad and leave no loophole for safe evasion while they are in force. These rules require that each owner of a dog must keep his animal tied, if a dog running at large bites persons or animals during the term of the quarantine, the owner is responsible for the damage and can make no defense in court. Under these conditions, the only safe course for the owner of a dog is to tie his dog and to keep it tied until the quarantine is lifted.

If a dog acts abnormally and the owner suspects rabies he should shoot the animal at once. If it has bitten persons or animals, the head of the dog should be preserved and forwarded to Madison for examination. If this course is pursued, the victims of the dog may get early treatment of rabies in case treatment is necessary. Shooting the dog and calling a veterinarian, is a good rule.

Recently several dogs acting strangely have been killed by their owners in the territory under quarantine, who suspected rabies and did not desire to take any chances.

APPLY FOR REPORTS OF EXPERIMENT STATION

Copies of "What's New in Farm Science," the forty-fifth annual report of the agricultural experiment station, University of Wisconsin, will be sent this year only to those applying for them, according to Andrew W. Hopkins, editor. "We are revising our mailing list and want everyone who can use a copy to have one," he said. "At the same time, we are anxious to eliminate any possible waste. The report of the experiment station now embraces so many lines of work that we are sending the extended report only to those who make application."

While the edition lasts, copies are sent free to residents of Wisconsin and to residents of other states who send 25 cents a copy with their applications.

YIELD OF APPLES DEPENDENT UPON CARE OF ORCHARD

Trees Must Be Sprayed and Pruned, Agricultural Expert Advises

BY W. F. WINSEY
In northeastern Wisconsin the raising of big yields of quality apples depends upon the care taken of the trees rather than upon the particular location of the orchard. Under the same attention and care, apples raised in Kewaunee-co, Brown-co, Oconto-co, Outagamie-co, or Calumet-co, might be exchanged even up for the best apples of the same kind for a spray ring started two years ago in each of counties of Kewaunee, Brown and Outagamie has proved that the best place to get choice apples is in the home orchard and that farm orchards may be made to pay as large a revenue as any other part of the farm.

The successful growing of apples in any of these counties depends upon the choice of types of trees adapted to the locality, pruning, fertilizing, and spraying the trees, and properly harvesting the fruit.

A spray ring started two years ago in each of counties of Kewaunee, Brown and Outagamie has proved that the best place to get choice apples is in the home orchard and that farm orchards may be made to pay as large a revenue as any other part of the farm.

In making the farm orchard pay, pruning the trees is the first piece of work to do. Because it is so easy that anybody can do it, and nobody is responsible for its being done, and it can be done at any time of the year, pruning is almost entirely neglected and the tops of the trees resemble brushpiles.

While apple trees may be pruned at any time of the year, the best time to do the job is in winter when other farm duties are out of the way.

CUT DEAD BRANCHES
Of the rules of pruning, C. L. Kuehner, orchard specialist of the College of Agriculture, says: "It is difficult to say much about how to prune a tree as no two trees are alike and practically no two trees require exactly the same treatment. However, there are a few needs that are common to all trees. In all cases, dead branches must be removed, crowding and interfering branches should have enough pruned out so that the remaining parts will have access to sunlight, high tops must be lowered and dense tops must be opened so that sunlight can get into all parts of the tree, upon the lower branches and in the middle of the tree. All of this pruning should be accomplished by means of numerous small and clean cuts rather than a few large ones. All wounds should be made so that no stubs remain. Cuts which are made very close or result in fewer suckers than long stubs. All large wounds should be sealed with a good wound dressing, such as heavy white lead paint without turpentine, or an asphalt paint."

"Successful orchardists carry out every part of the program of pruning, spraying and fertilizing trees. Doing this is the only way to obtain results which will spell profits from any orchard."

"We have found in our spray ring work throughout the state that efficient production of high quality fruit must precede any attempt at marketing. The high quality product, carefully harvested, properly packed and advertised is the product which always sells, even in years of great plenty."

"If orchard owners want to come into their own, if every farmer wants to produce a bountiful supply of fine quality apples for his family for the entire fall and winter months, he must adopt the program as outlined above. In many cases, surplus of the farm orchards that are cared for go a long way toward paying the farm taxes."

Last fall Phil Bixby, near Appleton, marketed all of his surplus apples after joining a spray ring, at the door of his residence. This surplus amounted to 500 bushels. His sales of apples would more than pay the taxes on his farm and the product of several trees paid the cost of spraying and pruning. Talk to Bixby about the possibility of making the farm orchard pay.

Don't Neglect a Cold Now, is Doctor's Advice

Don't neglect any cold nowadays. Colds are so weakening, and in a weakened condition, you are so susceptible to more serious troubles.

When you find you are catching cold, take care to keep your bowels open. That's the first precaution every doctor advises. That's the way to avoid the congestion which makes you feverish, achy, half-sick, miserable.

Millions know the quick way to open the bowels, keep them active, is with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin. Every second of the day someone, somewhere is going into a drugstore to get a bottle of this splendid medicine, made from simple laxative herbs and pepsin by the formula Doctor Caldwell found so effective during his 47 years' medical practice.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin is mild and gentle in its action but it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution. Contains neither narcotics or opiates. It is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it gladly.

For colds, fevers, biliousness, indigestion, headaches, heartburn, nausea, bad breath, loss of sleep—any troubles caused by poor digestion or faulty evacuation, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin will prove a blessing.

It's overwhelming success and popularity is based on real merit—on one satisfied user telling another. Your druggist sells the genuine bottles on a positive money-back guarantee to give satisfaction.

Here And There Among The Farmers--

BY W. F. WINSEY
William Schilt, route 5, will soon complete the remodeling of his old farm residence and convert it into a new, two-story, modern residence. 28 feet by 32 feet. He is now ready to lay the flooring and to do the plastering.

Nick M. Saint, Appleton cabbage grower and dealer, has lately completed having 3,000 feet of 6 and 8 inch drain tile in the field north of his residence. While there was no standing water in the field drained, Mr. Saint laid the tile to improve the under drainage, and to serve as a part of a sewerage system in case he decides to plot the land later.

Greenville—During the past year the Common Sense Local of the American Society of Equity received and distributed one carload of salt, three carloads of coal, and enough binder twine to supply the members. The local shipped out 30 carloads of livestock and quantities of poultry. The shipments in and out were about the same as last year.

Greenville—Some farmers in this vicinity are having considerable trouble this winter with mouldy silage. The animals occasionally get the defective silage in their mangers before the owner discovers the actual condition of the feed, and often in piles in the farm yard where it is thrown as refuse.

STOP THAT EROSION BY PLANTING CROPS
At the Missouri College of Agriculture it has been found that on a slope of 3.6 feet to 100 feet, soil left without any crops will wash away 7 inches deep in 29 years. Results which will spell profits from any orchard.

"We have found in our spray ring work throughout the state that efficient production of high quality fruit must precede any attempt at marketing. The high quality product, carefully harvested, properly packed and advertised is the product which always sells, even in years of great plenty."

"If orchard owners want to come into their own, if every farmer wants to produce a bountiful supply of fine quality apples for his family for the entire fall and winter months, he must adopt the program as outlined above. In many cases, surplus of the farm orchards that are cared for go a long way toward paying the farm taxes."

Last fall Phil Bixby, near Appleton, marketed all of his surplus apples after joining a spray ring, at the door of his residence. This surplus amounted to 500 bushels. His sales of apples would more than pay the taxes on his farm and the product of several trees paid the cost of spraying and pruning. Talk to Bixby about the possibility of making the farm orchard pay.

YOUNG CHICKS NEED WARM, LIGHT HOUSES

Well Ventilated Coops Represent First Step in Reducing Mortality

Madison—Warm, and well ventilated portable colony houses represent the first step in the program to reduce mortality among young chicks, to be undertaken in the state next spring, according to J. B. Hayes, extension poultry specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

"Every farmer who attempts raising chicks in the spring needs a warm house," he said, "and the ideal time to build it is during the winter when farm work is slack. Construction is easy, and the work can be done on the barn floor."

Three sizes of houses are favored in the state. The first, 8 feet by 12 feet, will accommodate about 250 chicks; the second, 10 by 12 feet, will house 350; and the third, 12 by 14 feet, will carry up to the maximum for a single house, about 450 birds.

The sides of the building are made of single boards, and paper is tacked to the studding to make them wind-proof. The sides are then covered with asbestos. This type of construction is cheap, but it has been found entirely satisfactory for the cold days and nights during late winter and early spring. Another advantage of this type of house is its light weight, which makes it possible to move it easily from one location to another.

In some parts of the state, lumbermen, Hayes reported, have offered to cooperate with poultrymen, supplying building equipment of the exact size required for the colony houses.

"The portable colony house, which can easily be moved to clean ground on the farm, is indispensable in reducing losses among growing chicks," Hayes declared. "Much of the mortality among the young birds is caused by soil borne organisms, which the chicks pick up when kept on infested ground. Most of this trouble can be averted by moving the birds to new ground, on which chickens have not been kept for several years."

With a rotation of crops such as corn, wheat, clover, etc. it would take 437 years to wash away the same depth of soil bacteria.

STUDY SAUERKRAUT FOR CONTENT OF VITAMIN

Madison—Sauerkraut, a dish which science has helped to popularize, is to be studied for its vitamin content in experiments outlined at the University of Wisconsin. A research fund from the National Kraut Packers' association, Clyde O. which was recently accepted by the board of regents, provides for the new investigation. The experiments will be under the supervision of the specialists in the home economics division of the College of Agriculture.

CONSOLIDATION OF COUNTIES

Consolidation seems to be the order of the age. State Senator John C. Schuman says that he will introduce a bill in the coming session of the legislature for the purpose of merging Dodge and Jefferson counties with the sole object of effecting economies in government, economies that must be apparent to anyone. This sort of a consolidation ought to be very welcome, particularly where a county is about to invest a large sum of money in the erection of a new courthouse with the purpose of accommodating the business of the county for at least the next century.

"There is now no reason for the numerous small counties," Senator Schuman declared, "in the days of horse-drawn vehicles there was reason for drawing county boundaries around small units, but with concrete roads and automobiles, a county seat fifty miles distant is now nearer than twenty-five miles away years ago, when that distance meant an all day journey." There doesn't appear, on the surface, much answer to the senator's declaration, but he declared further as one who is wise to the ways of the world, that he expects "considerable opposition to the plan by county politicians." There will be other opposition besides that from those who fear the loss of a job. We would think the most formidable opposition will come from the cities that are now county seats and fear to lose the prestige of the business that always goes to the county seat. If the consolidation can be brought about so as to leave the selection of the county seat to a vote of the people either at the time of the consolidation or thereafter the measure is more likely to be successful because it will thus eliminate one of the serious bones of contention.

Nevertheless, Senator Schuman is striking out in the right direction. The people ought to be glad to have men in the public service who will look over the machinery of government with an eye to economies. And where the people may save the expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars in the erection of courthouses or county buildings and the annual saving thereafter of their upkeep and a double set of county officials the matter must be given the careful attention which it deserves, particularly where it appears that there will be no set-back in the efficiency of government.

MUSIC LOVING AMERICANS

Not all foreign lecturers in this country recite America's faults. At the recent convention of the Music Teacher's National association, Ernest Fowles, a London musician, famous as a lecturer on appreciation of music and for his work for the London Music Festivals, was quite complimentary to our citizens.

"I must be honest," he said. "Your audiences in America are better, far better, than ours in England." Americans, he finds, like jazz and noise and din and confusion. But they do not stop there in their appreciation. Surprisingly, they like good music, too. An attentive, creative audience can always be assembled for intricate chamber music, well played symphonies, and other concerts of a predominately lofty and classical nature.

The same audience does not like both types of music, as a rule, but there are individuals in every audience who at least understand both types. The din-lovers may or may not exist in greater numbers than the classic-lovers, but the latter are more and more making their presence felt in the music world of America.

RUNNING THE WRONG WAY

With liquor flowing freely enough all over the land for New Year's eve there must have been many sore heads on the 1st of the year, but none sorer than that of Roy Riegels, center on the California team, who in the great game at the Rose Bowl on New Year's day picked up a fumble on the Georgia Tech twenty-five yard line and ran seventy-four yards in the wrong direction, a play that resulted in the defeat of his own team.

Riegels is entitled to the sympathy of the country. The error looms to him in gigantic style because things look that way to youth, even in play. The surprising thing is that this sort of an error is not more frequent with the confusion and bewilderment and stunning blows that are so common upon the gridiron. What a comedown it must be to a player in a crucial game to mistake the mad yelling of 80,000 people as applause for his wonderful sprint to find that it was only a pandemonium of derision at his blunder.

There is a reason why crucial games bring forth many so-called bonehead plays, although the term is a flagrantly unjust one. The nervous system of even an athlete trained closely to physical perfection, has limits of endurance and when those limits are reached and passed, mental bewilderment or cloudiness often ensues. Not only the gridiron becomes turned around and topsy-turvy but everything else in the world is upsidown, and instead of being a blunder the play becomes a natural thing under the unnatural circumstances.

Though Riegels felt like hiding his head in shame, the good sportsmanship of the game was demonstrated when the teammates whom he helped to defeat patted him on the back with a realization that his agony of mind must have been much sharper than their own disappointment.

TEACHING SAFETY IN SCHOOLS

An illustration of the value of intensive safety education is found in Cleveland's 1928 traffic fatalities. Although the total traffic deaths for the year showed an increase over previous years, only 28 children between the ages of 6 and 16 were killed this year as against 44 of the same age in 1927.

How was this brought about? A traffic policeman was assigned to safety work in the public schools. He made an average of seven lectures a day over a period of months. He spoke to nearly every class in 160 grade schools. He illustrated his lectures with lantern slides. He made it clear to the children that they had a responsibility toward public safety in their city. He taught them about obeying traffic signals, crossing only at cross walks, looking both ways carefully before going into the street to retrieve lost balls, and so on. Whenever a child was killed in traffic, the officer visited his or her school and discussed the cause of the accident with the pupils.

Safety patrols were organized in many of the schools. These patrols guarded street crossings near their schools to remind thoughtless youngsters of the safety regulations. This certainly looks like a good way to attack the problem of the careless pedestrian. Surely the children now in school, who go up through the grades and high schools with this instruction and practice in traffic sense, will have formed the habit of traffic observance by the time they are adults.

MOTERING IN PEACE

A fine, paved highway is planned to extend from Paris to Constantinople in Europe, with possible future extension through Asia.

"The provision of automobile highways," says an American who has been conducting negotiations with the Turkish government, "is of equal importance with the improvement of railroad facilities. A straight-line, concrete, high-speed highway between Paris and Constantinople would bring untold benefits to the countries through which it would pass.

"In the United States we have succeeded in spanning the continent from east to west and north to south with the Lincoln, Dixie and other noted highways." When the peoples of Europe get the motoring habit that Americans have, and go touring in their flivvers for their vacations, peace movements should receive quite a boost. Such traveling makes for understanding and liking.

Practically all good portland cement will pass through a sieve that has 10,000 meshes to a square inch, while some of the better grades are even finer.

BRIDGE RULES FOR 1929

Out New London way they are going to enforce their bridge rules very rigidly this year. Note the "He's," indicating that they were written for women. The rules follow:

1. Pick up your cards as dealt. You will be ready to bid ahead of the others.
2. If your hand is rotten mention it. It will guide your partner in his bid and play.
3. If your partner bids first do not hesitate to raise four or five. He has to play it, not you.
4. Never hurry. Try several cards on a trick until you are sure which one you prefer.
5. Occasionally ask what is trump. It will show that you are interested in the game.
6. Walk around the table when you are dummy and look at the hands. Tell them what cards are good and how many tricks they can take if they play right.
7. Do not show lack of interest when you are dummy. Help your partner with suggestions.
8. Talk about other subjects during the game. It makes good fellowship.
9. Feel free to criticize your partner. He will do much better as a result.
10. Always trump your partner's trick. Never take a chance.
11. Bend up the corners of the aces and kings. They are easier to spot when dealt.
12. Eat caramels or other adhesive candy while playing. It keeps the cards from skidding.

OUR PARKING LAWS

"What was the noise I heard in your husband's room last night?"
 "Poor John had a dream that he was in his car in town and he was moving his bed around from place to place so that he wouldn't be breaking the law by parking too long in one place."

A "good neighborhood" is any place where rents are too high.

"Somebody told me today that I was good-looking."

"When was that?"

"Today."

"No, I mean when were you good-looking?"

"I'm afraid I'm catching cold," said Kloseman, trying to get some medical advice free. "Every once in a while I feel an itching in my nose and then I sneeze. What would you do in a case of this kind, doctor?"

"Well," replied Dr. Sharp, "I guess I'd sneeze, too."

Maggie: Has he got good manners?

Lizzie: Say, I wish you'd see how he cleans up the gravy with a piece of bread. It's the prettiest thing in the world.

Spend and the world spends with you, say and it'll do its damndest to beat you out of it.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

Dr. X., who is superintendent of the Sunday school in a small village, asked one of the boys this question, "Andy, you tell me what we must do in order to get to heaven?"

"We must die," said the boy.

"Very true," replied the doctor, "but tell me what we must do before we die."

"We must get sick," said Andy, "and send for you."

Hard to tell which is worse, the church in politics or politics in the church.

Plans for the future traffic occasionally take the pedestrian into consideration, doubtless on the theory that a few of the species are destined to survive.

Patient: "Do you think I'll get well, doctor?"

Doctor: "You have every chance. Nine out of every ten cases of this kind die. You're my tenth case; I've had nine others and they all died."

After reading of the numerous road building programs, it is evident that the principal activity of the American people this summer will be detouring.

The burning question now before the nation is whether or not the Christmas tree can be gotten through the furnace door.

If you can call a man's name the second time you meet him you'll make a hit with him.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 7, 1904

Miss Anna Shinnors and Silvester Patrick Carroll were married at St. Mary's church.

Marriage licenses were issued to James Dundas and Anna Nohr, E. T. Roblee and Anna M. Nells, of Appleton, that day.

Mrs. Eliza Winton was to entertain a number of ladies at a reception at her home the following Friday afternoon.

Miss Clara Drees, who since the resignation of Clarence Shepard, had occupied the position as organist at the Methodist church, had resigned to accept a position at Moline, Ill. The position was to be temporarily filled by Miss Elva Smole.

Edward Lehman had gone to Mount Clemens, Mich.

Miss Abbie Lemoyne was visiting in DePere for several days.

Thomas E. Johnston returned the previous night from a several days business trip to Ashland.

Mr. William Duvall left for Chicago that morning where he was to be the guest of friends for the following two months.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 2, 1919

Republican attacks on the League of Nations were paying the way for Roosevelt's candidacy for the presidency. Senator Lewis, Illinois Democratic whip of the senate, declared that day in a speech.

Bert Burmeister had returned to his home at Harris-st. after receiving a discharge from the United States navy.

J. M. Smith was in Wausau on business that day.

Anna Lueckel and Marie Greiner were Kaukauna visitors that day.

Miss Lavetta Meany returned to Appleton after spending a week at New London.

Paul Goz of Manitowoc and Michael Benzschawel spent New Year's day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Goz, Lake-st.

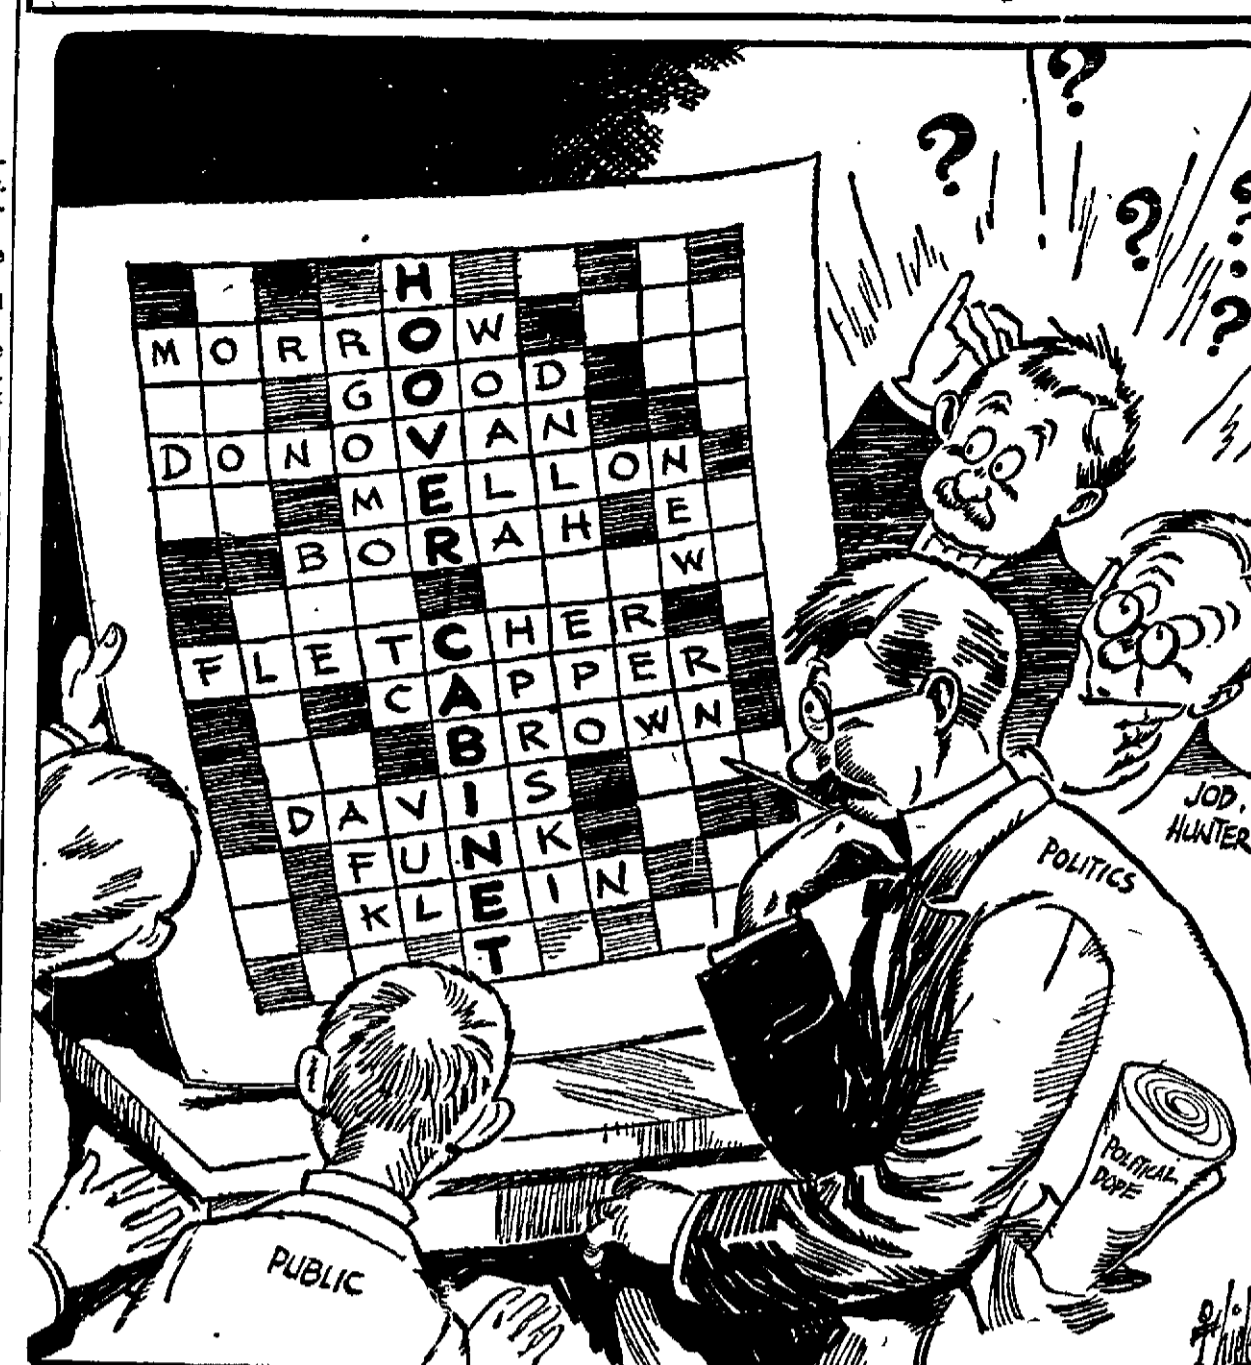

Carl Hassman had returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he was to board the Mississippi after spending an eight day turlough with his parents.

Containing only three streets and less than one hundred houses, St. David's in Pembroke-shire, England, has a famous cathedral and is entitled to call itself a city.

It is estimated that there is enough oil in sight to last a full century, and sufficient potential motor fuel to supply all needs for another 2,900 years.

It is estimated that there will be one auto for every 20 people in Europe within ten years' time.

SKINNY WINNIE GAINS THREE POUNDS A WEEK

Skinny Winnie has berated me time and again because I candidly confess I like 'em plump. Then, too, I devote so many articles to handing out sympathy to corpulent Cassie and outlining painless methods of reduction. As Skinny says, of course it doesn't matter if I'm that kind of person, but I might now and then lay aside my questionable admiration for—well, let us not use the epithet for—well, let us not use the epithet for—long enough to give some useful information for readers who want to put on more flesh.

That's the way I like 'em. It is only the kind that doesn't want to get plump—you know the kind I mean. Darn it all, I have no grudge against the holy frights. I suppose I sympathize more with the plump people because they are so much easier to sympathize with. What I mean, now, shucks, the truth is that once you've braved the somewhat cold forbidding aura that surrounds your emaciated quarry, you generally find the poor thing is quite pleasant to get along with provided no charlatan has already fitted the unfortunate with the obsession of colic.

Drs. Appel, Farr and Marshall treated sixteen male patients and thirteen female patients in the mental and nervous department of Pennsylvania Hospital for undernutrition (underweight) with insulin, and the male patients made an average weekly gain of three pounds, while the average weekly gain among the female patients was 2 and four-tenths pounds.

These patients received doses of insulin varying from 5 to 25 units daily for from two to eight weeks. In three cases this treatment gave no apparent effects. In four cases the insulin had to be discontinued because the patients did not tolerate it very well, though even in these cases there was no great reduction of the blood sugar.

The insulin was injected with hypodermic syringe in the usual way, half an hour before the meals, and the patients were given a diet that (including between-meal lunches) yielded approximately 4000 calories daily. Orange juice was kept at hand, to give to any patient who manifested any symptoms of excessive reduction of blood sugar. We need not give these symptoms, further than to say we have all had them now and again when we happened to be physically fatigued and empty (if not consciously hungry) at the same time.

If the favored fat folk will kindly skip the remainder of this article I shall try to indicate to the gaunt ones how this hypoglycemia (too great reduction of blood sugar) feels, for probably skinny folk are prone to suffer from such spells, and they should have a good emergency remedy at hand. Usually several hours after the last meal, say 3 a. m. or in mid-afternoon if you are at work, a queer sense of uneasiness, apprehension, almost fear, comes over you; you may feel hungry, but just as likely you feel rather squeamish, all-gone, or rather faint and dizzy; you are pretty weak, tremble, even breaking into a cold sweat. Ha, ha! It is nothing. Your blood sugar is running low, that's all. Grab for your orange or orange juice, or your cache of candy, or raisins, or bottle of milk. In a few minutes you will be all right—if it is hypoglycemia.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Peroxide

Would the use of peroxide on the scalp every three or four weeks cause the hair to turn gray or fall out? Mrs. W. R.

Answer—Peroxide bleaches out the hair. I suppose some shades of hair bleached with peroxide might look gray. I do not think it would cause the hair to fall out. I cannot give any advice about bleaching or dyeing the hair, though I assure you

I'd bleach or dye mine if I wished and a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions about the care of your hair. Do not use clipping, but ask for what YOU want.

Tuberculosis Is Not Tubercular
 Ca a person, not tubercular, contract the tuberculosis germ by kissing a tubercular person? (F. M. P.)
 Answer—Not unless the tubercular person is tuberculous; it means doesn't mean tuberculosis; it means nodular, little nodules, such as might be present in various diseases. Kissing would be one of the most likely ways to contract tuberculosis if the tubercular party has the disease in active state—that is, if tubercle bacilli are present in the sputum.

Red Measles Is Regular Measles
 I would like a little information about red measles. We are under quarantine for this disease. The baby has them, and the city doctor barred the other children from school. Only one of them, aged 4, has not had measles, all the other have had them. Does the law require that these children remain out of school until this one child comes down with the measles and gets over them? The city doctor claims a child will take red measles as many times as exposed. Other doctors we have consulted about this disagree with him. Does the "measles" sign they put on the house mean that everybody in the house is quarantined except mother and father? If so, why can't mother and father carry the disease as well as the other children? (Mrs. T. J.)

Answer—Red measles is ordinary measles. Ordinarily one attack of measles protects against second attack. Adults who have not had the measles should be subject to the same restrictions as are placed on children in the household. There is no evidence that child or adult who is not coming down with measles can carry the disease. Incubation period (time from infection to first symptoms) is so uniformly 9 to 11 days, that the best sanitary regulations permit other children of the household to remain in school one week, then at home a week, after which those who fall to come down with measles may return to school.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
 Washington—Paradoxical as it seems, there certainly is something about the life of a soldier that promotes longevity. The retired list of the army shows no less than five survivors in their nineties.

Perhaps it's just accident; perhaps the years of active warfare these elder statesmen of Uncle Sam's military family put in during youth and middle age only widened their span of life. But for whatever reason, there they are, a quintet of veterans to the calling of glory who are looking back over the top of almost a century of life.

"DIGGER" DIGS AT SCHOOL BOARD

Editor Post-Crescent—It seems to me that it is about time for the taxpayers of the City of Appleton to sit up and take notice of some of the things our elected representatives are doing. While there are many things to be discussed the most threatening one at this time is our school situation. It strikes me that our Board of Education is paying more attention to the demands of these high priced schoolmasters we have trying their fads and do-dads on our children at the enormous expense of our citizens instead of exercising sound business judgment of their own in matters vital to the financial soundness of our city. I am informed by competent authority that our Board of Education has gone on record as being favorable to the purchase of the Riverside Country Club for the purpose of placing thereon a high school to cost over a million dollars.

I concede that this is a beautiful spot and that an imposing structure built on it would be credit to the city, but, where is the money coming from for this purpose, and the subsequent maintenance of another corps of high-priced educators? When the taxpayers author--d the building of our two Junior High Schools the public was informed that the addition of these two schools would take care of all our necessities for years to come and they will. But here we have the spectacle of another million and a half being thrown in my opinion uselessly in the hopper of misguided zeal. Will the Board of Education please tell us what they propose to do with the First Ward School which is antiquated, outworn and if I am not mistaken condemned by the State authorities fifteen years ago.

Do we want to await a catastrophe that will result in the death of many of our children? And how about the Third Ward School? That occupies about the same position as the First Ward and that situation needs attention badly. No one should crucify unless a remedy is suggested and while my suggestion will be "Poo-Pooed" by the Board and their satellites, Messrs. Rohan, Hebble, Oosterhaus and Small, I believe it will appeal to those who have children in these schools and have to foot the bill. I suppose when the Board has this imposing structure across the river they will want a viaduct so that the children can get there without hoofing it through the flats, another half million or so. Let's build new schools in the First and Third Ward attaching a Junior High Department to each as in the Fourth Ward, which is recognized as the best school in our system. Then let us use the Roosevelt school as a High School adjunct and place surplus Juniors in the Wilson School where there is plenty of room. If more room should be necessary, shift the vocational school to the vacated part of the high school and use the vocational school for general purposes. I am advised that the two new ward schools will cost around $600,000.00, $300,000.00 each. I believe this will provide so much room present and future that either the present High School or Vocational School by this shift may be used as a City Hall, saving another possible drain on our already heavily bonded city. I trust that this creed will attract attention from our taxpayers and that it will stir up interest among those vitally affected both from a safety and a financial standpoint and that an aroused public will make their intentions and ideas plain before our well meaning Boards are led into a situation where they will serve a Banquet city.

COSTA RICA BUYS MORE THAN HALF OF GOODS FROM U. S.

Trade With Outside World
Reflects Progress, Stability of Country

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer with Herbert Hoover

San Jose, Rica Rica (By Mail)—The comparative progress and stability of Costa Rica have been reflected in her trade with the outside world. Throughout the republic there is a demand for imported goods, more than half of which are bought from the United States.

There are more than 1500 automobiles registered in the country and all that this writer saw were American makes. The Chevrolet, Buick, Oldsmobile and Ford (new model) predominating. Costa Rica would have more of them if it were not for a tax or tariff of 1000 colones ($250) on each car.

A high tariff on all imported goods outside the necessity class puts American and European goods above the reach of the not-so-well-to-do class. It is interesting to note that Germany, by underselling her British and American competitors, now has 20 per cent of Costa Rican import business, as against a pre-war 15 per cent and a wartime zero. A San Jose engineer, however, advised your correspondent of a recent trend toward American machinery after unsatisfactory experience with the cheaper German product.

Some American manufacturers are able to price their goods low enough to compete with the effects of the tariff. There is also a carefully selected list of goods which includes agricultural machinery, structural steel and cement. Upper class here drinks only imported liquors and wines and the tariff on those is so high as to make the prices about even with bootleggers in the United States. Scotch whisky costs $5 a bottle and good American ginger ale 50 cents.

Cotton fabrics represent the biggest import item, with a law tariff, as elsewhere in Central America, but the demand is relatively larger for good flour, automobiles, machinery and steel. Shoes, soaps and candles are the principal domestic manufactures and there are strong preferences for American shoes, Italian hats and English woolsens.

The first large object observed on the dock at Puntarenas was a piece of agricultural machinery from Aurora, Ill. Many of the young men carried umbrellas, used for sunshades, that might have come from New York, Paris or London, and some of the Puntarenas flappers even had latest style initialed pocketbooks under their arms.

Incidentally, this was the fourth Central American country in which your correspondent observed that skirts here are as short as anywhere else and the resultant outlook just as pleasant to contemplate.

The Hoover party rode from Puntarenas to San Jose in improvised parlor coaches made by the Southern Car Co. of High Point, N. C. A Baldwin oil-burner, drew the train and White Rock and White Rock gingerale, served free, went into competition with imported German beer. Your correspondent felt perfectly at home when a Costa Rican asked him in perfect English: "Is it hot enough for you?"

Every day Costa Rican customs are not markedly different from ours, except that breakfast is confined to coffee, roll and butter and lunch comes between 11 and 12. San Jose turned out to be perhaps more cosmopolitan than Americanized, with American, German, British and Spanish influences blended. Women get their silk dresses and stockings from Paris and their diamonds from Amsterdam. San Jose boys ride on Indians and Harley-Davidsons. Campbell's sends the soup. London supplies the cookies and crackers. The street cars all carry large "Goodrich Silvertown" signs on top. One uses American sanitary drinking cups everywhere.

The Police Gazette appears in the Gran Hotel, Vanity Fair and Pictorial are observed on a beauty parlor table alongside snappy Magazine from Madrid, a flashy Spanish language magazine printed in St. Louis, Wis., appears to be a favorite and there's a Spanish language movie magazine published in Neuva York. Lucky Strike and Camel cigarettes compete for Costa Rican favor at reasonable prices and the "Lucky Girl" often smiles across at "Wrigley's gum girl ad. Remington typewriters and General Motors machines are shown in large showrooms. Lithographs on many billboards ballyhoo movies featuring Pola Negri, Harold Lloyd and other American stars. Modern drugstores show American dental floss, fountain pens and razor blades besides cosmetics and candles from France and Britain. The leading bookstore sells Spanish, English and German novels.

There's a grocery store which is a dead ringer for any American chain store, carrying all the familiar canned brands. San Jose is being paved by a German firm. Road building contracts have lately been awarded to a North Carolina concern and the railroad to the Pacific coast is being electrified under American supervision.

But perhaps nothing reminded your correspondent so much of home as the conversation of two women across the table at the Hoover luncheon, who turned out to be Americans. Said one to the other, "What do you know about that Mrs. Blotz? Everyone here has hats. Suppose we'd taken her advice and not worn any. Then where'd we be?"

American investments in the country are supposed to run up above $30,000,000, much of which was put in by the United Fruit Company, which owns some 75 per cent of the railroads. The Sinclair oil interests have a million acre concession in Costa Rica, though ideas differ as to how much of there is under Costa Rican ground. There is demand for capital for more agricultural development.

Bananas and coffee are the big export crops. Extensive forests remain to be exploited and there are vast tracts of uncultivated land as well as a great deal of unused water power. The mountainous nature of much of Costa Rica appears to have hindered development, although there is excellent railroad service between the Pacific port of Puntarenas and the capital and between San Jose and the Atlantic.

At the time of the Hoover visit a government representative was in New York trying to raise a $10,000,000 loan for highways to feed the railroad system, which will open up a market for trucks and more pleasure automobiles.

STAGE And SCREEN

"WEST OF ZANZIBAR"

Lon Chaney donned his first false moustache in eleven years, studied several days in a hospital to emulate the action of a paralyzed man and mastered the intricate art of sleight of hand to be able to perform the feats required by his latest screen role.

This odd form of preparation was necessary in filming "West of Zanzibar," Mero-Goldwyn-Mayer's vivid drama of the African jungles, in which Chaney is shown at the New Brin Theatre, Menasha.

Chaney plays the role of "Dead Legs Flint," a sinister "white voodoo" and former stage magician, who paralyzed from the injuries he received in a fight with the man who had robbed him of his wife's affection, trails his enemy through the wilds, terrorizing a tribe of savages with his strange "magic" and eventually accomplishing a fearsome revenge that turns about and destroys him.

A complete replica of an African jungle was built at the studios for the picture. Tropical plants were made to grow by artificial heat. Several hundred natives take part in weird voodoo ceremonies, wearing African "devil masks" and other strange accoutrements and a number of spectacular exhibitions of mystery enhance the dramatic situations.

In the earlier part of the picture, while he is enacting the stage magician, Chaney gives an elaborate sleight of hand performance, including the sensational "fire eating" trick.

A notable cast surrounds Chaney in the new production. Lionel Barrymore plays "Crane," the enemy whom he trails through the jungles and Mary Nolan is seen as the heroine, supposed to be Chaney's wife. Chaney's daughter until, in the dramatic climax, he finds that she is his own child. Warner Baxter plays the romantic lead as the renegade physician who finds regeneration in his love for the girl. Kalla Pasha, Jane Daly, Roscoe Ward and many others of note are in the cast. Tod Browning, who directed Chaney in "The Unholy Three," "The Road to Mandalay" and other notable successes, directed this production.

SENNETT PERSONALLY DIRECTS HIS LATEST

His first personally directed feature in seven years is M. Sennett's "The Good-Bye Kiss," which comes to the Elite Theatre Friday, Saturday and Sunday as a First National Pictures release.

Sennett, veteran of slapstick and comedy features, has gained a reputation for clean-cut and clever humor that has never been excelled on the screen and it is said that this new offering has qualities that place it far in the lead of any of his previous undertakings.

Sally Eilers is the girl in the story; Matty Kemp is the boy, and Johnny Hurke supplies enough comedy for two multicolored films.

In addition such well known players as Alma Bennett, Wheeler Oakman, Lionel Belmore, Carmelita Grey, Eugene Pallette, Jean Laverty and Andy Clyde appear in the big cast.

SHE WANTED TO SIN; FOUND IT HARD JOB

An earnest ambition to obtain "experience" in the sinful life of New York's underworld provides the basis for the plot of "Synthetic Sin," Golden Movie's latest laugh-picture, which will have its first local showing tonight at the Elite theatre.

"Synthetic Sin" was a successful Broadway stage play before Producer John McCormick decided to use it as a movie picture vehicle for Miss Moore, who was directed by William A. Seiter in this First National comedy. Present in the supporting cast are Antonio Moreno, Montagu Love, Gertrude Astor, Edith Chapman, and Kathryn McGuire.

"I DON'T WANT TO BE A MOTHER" SAYS AUTHOR

BY ALLENE SUMNER
 "I Don't Want to Be a Mother," writes one Margery Lawrence in the current "Cosmopolitan," thereby shaking the red flag. She shakes it some more as she continues—

"I represent a type of woman increasingly common in the world of today—the frankly non-maternal. I think I may stand as a specimen of all-around normal modern womanhood. And I bluntly declare there is nothing whatever wrong with me, mentally, or physically, or in not wanting a child."

"It is not remarkably clever to reproduce your kind, nor does it necessarily alter or improve a woman's character, though, to listen to some of these complacent mothers, one would think that the arrival of a baby must prove a palliative to every ill—an immediate solution to all life's problems!"

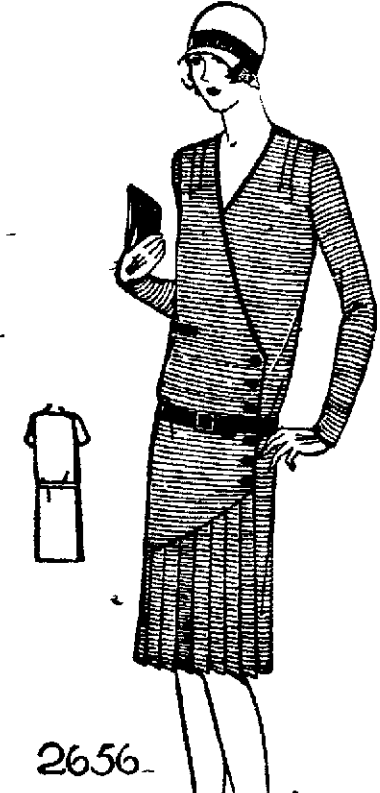

"The old idea that a baby was a sort of divine promise that immediately would spread bland happiness and content over the sore places in life—and glue together two people who were drifting apart—this idea, futile and stupid and untruthful as it is, still persists with nauseating longevity."

"The truth is that a baby is a wedge forcing two people apart fully as often as it knits them together, and it is a nuisance as often as a joy."

Surely enough has been quoted to prove the trouble which this bold lady who does not even write anonymously, is stirring up for herself. The very vehemence of it proves, too, that she knows she's on the defensive, striking back at those who have called her selfish, "unnatural."

She might have proven her point more effectively if, instead of being on the defensive, she had tried to show just how the world needs and uses the childless woman as well as the mother.

But there's T. N. T. in these pages and we wouldn't want the job of opening the editor's mail for a while!

Beach Suits Adorn Debbies At Play; Formal Functions Set Out New Styles

Anne Brennan

Denyse Remington

Frances Maher

BY BETSY SCULLER

NEW YORK — There's no snow but much gaiety in the air this Yuletide. Winter sports vie with the jolliest parties and entertainment runs from informal breakfasts to the most formal holiday balls.

There have been many homecomings to make the season gayer, among whom no one receives a heartier welcome than Nora Iselin, who married Count Coloredo-Mannsfeld and turned her back upon untitled New Yorkers. She is more stunning, if possible, and looked every inch the Countess at Pierre's the other evening, in a royally gorgeous cloth of gold robe de style with great length on the sides and a smart train.

The Debutantes Reign. Most of the formal Christmas and New Year's entertainments are theirs. At a charity ball at Pierre's among the most beautiful deb's was Millicent Rogers' little cousin, Cynthia Pratt, who looks a great deal like the striking Mrs. Arturo Ramos. Her vivaciousity had an admirable foil in her demure perrinwinkle blue taffeta frock.

Nathalie Laimbeer wore white that same night, Lillian Kent a lovely pink chiffon, and Louise Van Allen a bouffant frock of pale blue faille taffeta, all somewhat bouffant and all long.

The vogue for browns for evening seems on the wane. Brighter tones, nowadays, But Frances Gillmore sponsored brown — a live tone of medium brown, for a beautiful tulle gown with gold splashing through it in the form of tiny threads. It had a sash of gold tied prettily, like a child's sash, at the back of the waistline. Sashes, by the way, are quite smart nowadays and doll up many a frock.

White holds a prominent place in the heart of young dancers. Mrs. George E. St. George wore a white taffeta frock with sprays of daisy flowers embroidered on it at the Embassy Club the other night. Her sisters, Mrs. Fellows Gordon, also wore white, a filmy chiffon trimmed with ostrich tips along the tiered skirt and down the back which floated gracefully as she danced. Kay Combs was striking in white satin, with long side drapes, and jade earrings and jade green slippers.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
 © 1928, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

enough. Mrs. James Deering, hostess to a large party at the Embassy Club, wore a beautiful little jeweled tree in diamonds, rubies and sapphires as a corsage on a white moire gown. Mrs. Seton Porter and Mrs. Doubless Page sponsored, respectively, diamonds and pearls of purest ray serene. Mrs. Page, by the way, is one New Yorker who clings to the strictly boyish bob, straight bangs and all.

Another evening at the same smart place, Mrs. Jorge Andre wore one of the smartest of this season's gowns, a velvet beige satin with mauve touches, such as facing for the scalloped, irregular hem, and mauve orchids. Mrs. Charles M. Amory looked distinguished in a scarlet chiffon frock with velvet cocktail jacket.

Though dinners, dances, bridge teas and receptions are filling the days and nights, thoughts are straying south and the exodus to Palm Beach is imminent. The deb's, staging "A Night in Wonderland" at the St. Regis, showed more southern resort clothes than any other kind.

PAJAMAS OF SATIN

There was Denyse Remington, wearing a smart lounging pajama suit of peach satin trousers, striped in brown, white satin sleeveless jumper polka dotted in brown, blue and black and a cute little full pack of peach velvet, also polka dotted in white, brown and blue.

Anne Brennan was the more formal sports girl in a striking new black and white checked suit which emphasized the tight skirt yoke and the tuck-in blouse, the same being a sweet one of satin with a novel sailor collar. She wore a white banded hat, banded in the checked silk. Her shoes were white kid with black and white straw vamp.

Frances Maher, chairman of the Debutante Committee, was mannish for one of the season's enstiff bathing suit, beach robe and hat ensembles. Her shorts of jersey were of tan, with a tuck-in low-backed jumper of modernistic yellow, tan and black woven silk. Her rough yellow beach robe was lined with the novelty silk and its standing collar turned back to show it better. The big, floppy, farmer's hat of rough straw was a matching yellow, banded with the silk.

QUESTIONS FOR EVERY MOTHER TO ANSWER

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I asked an authority on children's foods about some good general rules for feeding young children.

He handed me a list of questions printed on a paper.

"I give these to my 'mothers,'" he said. "They are not difficult to follow and fill the bill pretty well—unless a special diet is needed."

This is what I read:

"At the close of day a mother may ask herself these questions: 'Has each child had about a quart of milk either plain, or cooked in food?'"

"If I was obliged to serve skim milk did I supply the needed fat in some other way?"

"Were the fats I supplied of the wholesome kind found in butter, salad, oils, butters, substitutes, or were they of the unwholesome kind found in fried foods and doughnuts?"

"Did I make good use of the skim milk by using it up in puddings, dressing, cereal mushes and so on?"

"Were all the cereals thoroughly cooked?"

"Was the bread soggy or too fresh?"

"Did I keep in mind that children who cannot have fruit and a variety of vegetables must have whole-wheat bread?"

"Did I give each child an egg, or its equivalent in fish, poultry or meat?"

"Did I give each child more than this amount? If I did I could have spent the money in a better way, for fruits and vegetables."

"If I had no money for milk, meat, fish, poultry, or eggs, did I serve them dried beans, peas, or other 'legumes' thoroughly cooked and carefully seasoned?"

"If some fruit or vegetable did not agree with them, why was it? Did I chop it fine enough, or not cook it long enough, or should I have removed the skins?"

"Did the children eat sweets between meals and neglect their regular food?"

"Were their sweets simple—such as syrup, lump sugar, honey and plain candy? And did I see that they were eaten after meals or with meals, instead of before?"

"Did I permit the children to eat when they were very tired, or in a hurry?"

These are the questions, Mothers. They may be a general guide to you.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE little train went sailing fast and Clowdy shouted, "Well at last, we're going to have a brand new thrill. I hope that all goes well. Into the mountain we are bound. How quiet! My there's not a sound. It sort of makes me nervous, and I almost want to yell."

Oh, something's sure to happen quick. The tunnel entrance looks real slick," said Clowdy. "You'll be glad when we've started through that rock. We're getting closer very fast. Feel how the breeze goes whizzing past. In just a moment we'll be there. It's not more than a block."

And then they reached the tunnel door. The engine sailed through with a roar. "Twins just as dark as it could be, and all the bunch were still. On, on they went. Then Clowdy cried, 'My, I'll be glad when we're outside. I think I see some light ahead. Say! This is quite a thrill!'"

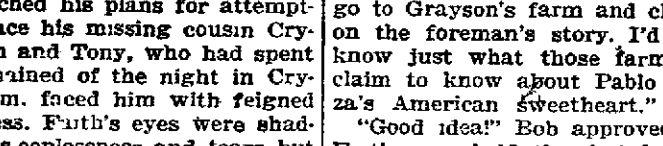

And, sure enough, they reached the light and everything was still all right. The train had cleared the tunnel, and began to move fast slow. "Just see the scenery. This is grand," said Clowdy. "Just like Fairyland. We're riding on a rocky ledge. The ground is far below."

Then Clowdy shouted, "Mercy me! Do all of you see what I see?" The other Tynmites looked around and promptly shouted "Yes!" Then Clowdy whispered, "Down below, some dwarfs are putting on a show. And there are little fairies, too. How queer, they all dress."

The train slowed down some more, then stopped and out the little Tynmites hopped. Brave Clowdy said, "We'll meet this bunch, and see some pretty sights." Some fairies then flew up real near, and one exclaimed, "We're glad you're here. This is a land of wondrous things, and welcome, Tynmites!"

(Clowdy surprises the rest in the next story.)

 COPYRIGHT 1929 BY Anne Austin NEA SERVICE INC.

The next morning, after four almost sleepless hours, Bob Hathaway sketched his plans for attempting to trace his missing cousin Crystal Faith and Tony, who had spent what remained of the night in Crystal's room, faced him with feigned hopefulness. Faith's eyes were shadowed by sleeplessness and tears but Tony was too vital to show physical evidences of her very real distress.

"Now this is what I've decided to do," Bob began. "I'm going to check up on the railroad stations first, then I'm going to telephone to every county clerk within a radius of a hundred miles, to see if a marriage license has been issued to Crystal Hathaway and Pablo Mendoza. I don't know which will hurt worst, finding that they are or aren't married. Alan Bardsey's coming over from his hotel to help me with the telephoning, while I interview the station masters and ticket-sellers. I don't want you to have to do it, money," he added to Faith.

"You won't mind if I tell Sandy Ross, my aviator friend, all about it, will you, Bob?" Tony asked forlornly. "I always tell Sandy everything. And he's got more brains in one bump on his cranium than any other man I know has in his whole skull—begging your pardon, Bob."

"All right," Bob grinned. "May his plane roll come in handy, if we find that Crystal and this Pablo left together and didn't bother to get married first Sandy Ross could hop off and catch the train before it reached its destination, which, more than likely, would be Mexico."

Faith went so white at that that Tony quickly refilled her cup with coffee and made her drink it. Then: "Bob, I think Sandy and I ought to go to Grayson's farm and check up on the foreman's story. I'd like to know just what those farm hands claim to know about Pablo Mendoza's American sweetheart."

"Good idea!" Bob approved. "And Faith, you hold the fort here. We may get a telegram from her any minute. Cherry will be in to spend the day with you if I know my beloved California. She knows Beardsley's going to be here, too," he added significantly.

"Oh, I can't bear to have anything else happen to this family," Faith moaned. "Cherry has got to give Beardsley a job. I thought when she married Nils Johnson I'd never have to worry about her anymore. I'm off! Try to get some rest, sweet. Let Beulah take care of Robin—give him his bath, feed him, and everything."

"Don't talk silly, Bob!" Faith smiled.

ed at him wanly. "My only hope of getting through this day lies in devoting myself to Robin. You'll telephone if you get any news at all—no matter whether it's good or bad!" she pleaded.

"Promise!" Bob kissed her. "You and Sandy Ross will report here by telephone, too, Tony?"

"Of course!" Tony replied. "I'm going to quiz the motorman and conductors of the interurban, too. There's just a chance they saw Crystal and Pablo together, waiting for the interurban in that dingy little station near the Graysons, you know. Lord! I'll never forgive myself for not having wrangled a better time for her out of these Stanton boys that trail me around."

Use a spoon or spatula for turning broiling meats. If pricked with a fork they will lose some of their juices.

If the oven has not been sufficient, ly hot to brown cookies in 10 to 20 minutes, place the baking sheet and cookies directly under the broiler for a minute and the cookies will brown and not be overcooked as they would be if baked for 15 minutes.

If doughnuts are flat on one side there has been insufficient fat for the frying.

LA VERNE SCHMIDT

Wisconsin Girl is a Winner

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct but many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits until the poisons from decaying waste held to long in the system have begun to affect the child's health.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give her a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc. It gives them a hearty appetite, regulates their stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. For over fifty years, leading physicians have prescribed it for half-sick, bilious, constipated children. More than 4 million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it.

Mrs. E. W. Schmidt, 349 Thirty-sixth St., Milwaukee, says: "My daughter, La Verne, is a prize winner for health, now, but we found she had constipation and began giving her California Fig Syrup. She fixed her up quick, gave her a good appetite, made her sleep fine and she's been gaining in weight right along since the first few days, taking it."

To avoid inferior imitations of California Fig Syrup, always look for the word "California" on the carton.

Huge Chorus Is Ready To Sing Messiah

THE MESSIAH, postponed because of the epidemic of illness which forced the closing of Lawrence college before the holidays, will be given at Lawrence Memorial chapel at 3:30 Sunday afternoon, Jan. 6. Although about 60 members of the chorus were ill at the time school closed, Dean Carl J. Waterman, director of the production, has been assured that all have recovered and that the chorus will have its normal strength by Sunday. Several practices have been scheduled for the end of the week, and the director is confident that a few hours of work will bring the production back to the high point of perfection it had attained just before the epidemic of colds interfered with the presentation.

The chorus of 225 students will be assisted by four soloists and the Conservatory orchestra. The soloists are B. Fred Wise, Chicago tenor; Carl S. McKee, baritone; Miss Helen Mueller, contralto; and Miss Gertrude Farrell, soprano.

No admission will be charged, but a silver offering will be taken to defray expenses of the undertaking.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSURGES ROTARY CLUB TO BACK SCOUT TROOPSPurpose of Movement Is Outlined by Fox River Valley Executive

Kaukauna—Defining scouting as being more of a program or movement than an institution, M. G. Clark, Fox River Valley Scout executive, discussed boy scout work and its purposes before the Kaukauna Rotary club at its weekly meeting Wednesday noon in Legion hall.

Mr. Clark advised that all scout troops should be connected with some church or institution rather than be a community troop. In that way the church or institution could aid the scout movement and help develop proper habits in boys.

"A young boy is taken into the scouts when he is twelve years of age. This is the 'gang age' when he wants to get out with others and see how he ranks with them in the way they do things," he said.

"While with the scouts he passes certain tests such as first aid, knot tying, trail riding and is taught how to be of service to other people. This trains the boy in observance, develops his thinking power and makes him ambitious," he said. Kaukauna has one successful troop because of the men behind it, but the city is large enough to have three troops, he stated. He urged the Rotary club to back the scout movement in this city. The Rotary could do nothing better to start the new year off right than by backing the boy scout movement and put their own personal leadership into it, he said.

RELIGIOUS ADDRESS CLUB

F. N. Belanger, president of the valley council, also gave a talk in which he told of the scout movement in Appleton. He said that the situation in this city is about the same as that in Appleton several years ago. He stated that the Appleton troops have increased from 112 members to over 400 in the past few years, because of proper leadership. He urged the local men to put such leadership into the local scout movement.

"The biggest mistake of the men who get behind the scout movement is that they raise a lot of money and then put it into a scout treasury and forget about it. The result is that the movement is a failure," he said. "In order to realize success the men that it is well spent and take an active part in the movement."

Olin G. Dryer, member of the local troop committee gave a short talk in which he asked the local men to donate money to the help fill the quota of the valley council for this year. He said that the local scouts were getting the benefit of the Appleton scouts and are not paying toward the valley expenses.

He stated that it was decided at a meeting of the troop committee several weeks ago that if no money could be raised the local troop would reorganize independently of the valley council or else disband. He said that the Kaukauna American Legion had back a troop if a leader could be had. He also told of the scout camp on Lake Winnebago at which a large number of local scouts spent several weeks this summer.

Louis Nelson, vice president, was in charge of the meeting as President Ben Prugh is absent from the city. The board of directors met after the regular meeting.

PIGEON FANCIERS TO ENTER BIRDS IN SHOW

Kaukauna—Albert and Edward Ludke, local pigeon owners, are planning to enter about 20 pigeons in the seventeenth annual exhibit of the Fox River Poultry and Pet Stock association at Armory G. Appleton, from Wednesday until Sunday, next week. The local men have entered birds at the exhibits in other years and have won numerous prizes.

Hundreds of chickens, pigeons and rabbits from throughout the valley will be on display. Show officers are John Goodland and A. A. Mays. The association is offering a large assortment of cash prizes this year, and a silver cup is to be awarded to the largest outside exhibitor. Other awards will be given for the best display.

KAUKAUNA GIRL WIFE OF HOOVER SHIP'S OFFICER

Kaukauna—Mrs. Harold Train of Washington D. C., a former Kaukauna girl and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Phillips, 301 Eighth-st., sent word here that her husband is an officer on the battleship, Utah, on which President-elect Herbert Hoover made his trip to South America. She stated in her letter that the ship would return to this country this month.

Famous Recipe
For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to make and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drug store. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable threefold action. It sprays right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the inflammation, and loosens the germinant phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known to be the greatest healing agent for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
ASHTORETH ASHE, Boston stenographer, is taking a cruise to the West Indies.

Her roommate, MONA DE MUSSET, is a rather incredible creature, about whom everybody on shipboard is conjecturing. She dresses extravagantly and in exceedingly daring fashion. Ashtoreth feels certain that she must choose, for companionship, between Mademoiselle de Musset and the more respectable women aboard. But Mademoiselle attaches herself to the little stenographer, who hardly knows what to do.

Ashtoreth is very beautiful herself and though she looks extremely sophisticated, is actually rather naive and conventional. She is traveling alone, because there was not enough money for her mother to take the trip too. Her mother—MAIZIE—a woman with a heart of gold, has made sufficient sacrifices to send Ashtoreth, who has been ill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV
The perfumed atmosphere of Mademoiselle de Musset filled the room. The washstand was crowded with her cosmetics. Powders and paints and pencils. Puffs and brushes and creams. Green lotions in square bottles. And bath salts in crystal jars.

The floor was littered with shoes. Brocaded mules and feathered mules. And little French pumps, with stubby toes and very high heels. There were clothes on the couch and the berths. And a flame-colored negligee, trailing flamingo feathers, dropped across an open hat box. Lingerie was scattered all about, sheer as cobwebs and deliciously fragrant.

Ashtoreth surveyed the lovely confusion helplessly.

There were long strings of beads hanging over the mirror. The port hole was open, so that the wind from the ocean lifted them restlessly and they clicked against the glass.

Ashtoreth closed the door and stood with her back against it. Her own clothes were hung on hangers in the little wardrobe. Her few toilet articles ranged neatly, side by side. Her shoes, with their painted toes, stood in pairs, staunchly, against the wall. Ashtoreth was naturally orderly and methodical. And now her berth was piled with finery that she hardly dared to touch.

While she contemplated the dazzling disorder, there was a discreet knock on the door. A stewardess, come to put their things away.

"I am sorry," she apologized, "that I could not get down sooner. There are some ladies on my deck that are ill and I could not leave before. Mademoiselle de Musset travels usually with a maid. But this trip she has engaged me to keep her things in order. I will soon make it neat, Miss Ashe. Maybe you would like to take a little stroll around the deck and when you come back, I will be through."

Ashtoreth agreed gladly. It would be a relief to fill her lungs with the pungent sea air. She found Mademoiselle's expensive fragrance a little overpowering.

She tied the gypsy kerchief about her head and pulled on a pair of gloves.

"I'll be back in 10 minutes," she said.

A mysterious lady—Mademoiselle. Ashtoreth was tempted to make a few cautious inquiries of the stewardess, who seemed to know her. A sense of delicacy overcame her curiosity, however. And, dismissing her exciting roommate, she turned her thought to Maizie. Maizie and Sadie. And Monty. And Mr. Hart. It she could only forget him!

The wind was blowing a wintry gale. A glorious, thing to brave. Ashtoreth turned her face to the flying clouds.

It was a wild night. A night for Vikings. And girls with mad, young blood in their veins.

"Oh, Oh," she cried and sang a little song she knew:

"Some love to roam o'er the dark sea's foam,
Where the shrill winds whistle free!"

But the gale took the words from her mouth and flung them back into her teeth. And the wind sent her scurrying down the deck.

A man lowered his head to the blast and rounded the corner. And the wind, screeching flung Ashtoreth into his arms. He stretched them wide to catch her. And held her for a moment, while she steadied herself.

"I am sorry!" he cried.

An American, Ashtoreth thought, would have said, "I beg your pardon." Englishmen always said they were sorry. She liked it. It seemed more sincere.

He had a pipe in one hand. Ashtoreth could see the tobacco glowing in the bowl. And his hat was in his hand. The moon had scuttled behind a fleecy cloud. And the deck was black as ink.

"I am sorry," he repeated. "I hope I didn't hurt you. Did I frighten you?"

"A little," she admitted.

She liked his voice in the dark. And she liked his coat. It was tweed—some coarse stuff—and smelled of tobacco. She had brushed her face against it when he caught her in his arms.

"You'd better let me take care of you," he told her, "or some other brute will be walking all over you."

He said it diffidently and asked, "Do you mind if I walk around with you? I'll promise to keep off your feet."

"I'd like to have you," she said. "It's sort of scary out here all alone. I thought I was the only person up."

A bell rang and the watch changed. An officer came down from the bridge, swinging his arms to keep warm. And sailors passed each other on the deck.

"The bar closes at 12," the Englishman remarked. "We'll have time to take a turn around and have a drink if you like."

He took Ashtoreth's arm and they turned to face the moon that shone palely across the midnight waters.

"I'd like a walk," she told him, "but I don't care about a drink."

"You don't?" he exclaimed. "Why I thought an American girl drank."

"I knew you were English," she retorted. "It's dreadful the things an Englishman thinks about Americans. We've so many Anglo-maniacs in our country, too. It doesn't seem quite fair."

He laughed, and pressed her arm. "Well, I'm sort of a Yankee myself," he assured her, "so that evens things up. Seriously, though, I had supposed all jeune filles Yankees spent the great part of their time quaffing the forbidden nectar. It's a joke in England, you know."

"You don't live in America?" she asked.

"I've been at school there," he told her. "At Harvard Law, because, I expect to practice in your country."

"This sincere letter," says Peterson, "gave me another happy day and as nearly every mail brings praise for Peterson's Ointment, is it any wonder that I keep cheerful all the time?"

"Dear Sirs: I had a bad leg for 20 years, tried everything but no benefit. I tried Peterson's Ointment and five 35 cent boxes healed my leg. I can never praise it enough. My leg was so painful at first that I had to put fresh ointment on every two hours, night and day. It stopped the pain at once. Mrs. Mark Richards, Lake Linden, Mich."

Besides running and old sores and ulcers, Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles, eczema, itching skin, sore feet, prickly heat, sunburn, chafing, cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and scores of other ailments, as any druggist anywhere will tell you. A generous box 35 cents. Adv.

Advocates in England do not earn so much as in America. We're dreadfully poor since the war, don't you know?"

She wondered, then, how it happened that he was taking a cruise, if he were dreadfully poor. And how he left school in the middle of a semester.

"The governor has a sugar plantation at Antigua," he told her. "And we're afraid the hurricane just about wiped us out. He went home to Surrey last year, and died on his holiday. I'm going down to see how things look, and put a new manager in if I can. I'll try to get this same boat back to New York. I'll have about a week from the time she puts in on her way down until she stops again on the way home."

"You know," he chuckled — "I'm really glad that I am such an awkward fellow. Else I should not have bumped into you. Now I shall know you the entire trip. Five days to Antigua. And five days home again. And we'll have full moon before we reach the islands."

"When," she asked him, shivering a little, "does it begin to get warm?"

"Day after tomorrow," he told her. "The officers will have on their whites. And the sailors will be putting up the awnings. And we'll dance on deck under tropical stars. Is this your first trip to the Indies?"

"It's my first trip anywhere," she confessed.

"You're not alone?" he asked. Ashtoreth felt that an Englishman would doubtless consider it very bad form. English people are so tiresomely conventional.

"Quite alone," she told him. "But I've a roommate. A very fancy lady. Your surely noticed her at dinner. She wore a gown of cloth of gold. She's perfectly stunning, and dreadfully delectable. You must have seen her."

"Mademoiselle de Musset?" he exclaimed. "Why, she always has a suite. I heard that she was aboard."

but I didn't go down to dinner so I haven't happened to see her."

Ashtoreth stopped short.

"For goodness sake!" she exclaimed, "what do you know about her? The stewardess told me she usually traveled with a maid. And I know there are staterooms that haven't been taken. Why under the sun do you suppose she's sharing a cabin with me? I didn't know people ever did such things unless they had to save money."

"Maybe she wanted company," he hazarded. "The women usually leave her pretty strictly alone. I suppose she figured that a room mate wouldn't be so apt to cut her dead."

"But who is she?" demanded Ashtoreth. "And how do you happen to know so much about her?"

"Oh, I've been back and forth a few times," he said. "And Mademoiselle usually makes one trip a year. She's from Guadeloupe, you know. Will you tell her that Jack Smythe sent his compliments? By the way,

SINCLAIR IS FIGHTING SUPREME COURT REVIEW

Washington — (AP)—Opposition to the government's proposal that the supreme court review the entire case you haven't tied me your name yet."

Ashtoreth tucked the hair that blew across her eyes beneath her gipsy kerchief.

"Ashtoreth Ashe, Mr. Smythe," she told him.

"Ashtoreth!" he cried. "Why, that's most peculiar, you know. My cousin was in Egypt for a bit, and when he came home he had a perfect passion for Egyptian names. His wife had twin daughters while he was away, and what do you think he named them? Charisma and Iru—for the faithful ladies who died with Cleopatra, don't you know. There was talk, I remember, of calling one of them Ashtoreth. Upon my word, that's rather a coincidence."

They had reached the door that led into the lighted lounge.

"Come in, won't you?" begged Smythe. "I want so much to see you. A girl with a name like yours You must be very beautiful."

Ashtoreth was always embarrassed when people talked about her name.

"I'm not beautiful!" she protested. "And my hair's all blown, and my nose is red as a beet."

But Smythe had drawn her into the light.

"You've just the sort of eyes," he cried, "that a goddess ought to have—the greenest of things blue. The bluest of things gray."

Ashtoreth laughed.

"Well," she said, "if I look like a goddess, you look like the Prince of Wales!"

SINCLAIR IS FIGHTING SUPREME COURT REVIEW

Washington — (AP)—Opposition to the government's proposal that the supreme court review the entire case Involving the conviction of Harry F. Sinclair for refusal to answer questions of a senate oil committee was submitted to the court Wednesday by Sinclair's attorneys, George F. Hoover and Martin W. Littleton.

Sinclair, who was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $500, appealed to the District of Columbia

Court of Appeals and that court certified five questions to the supreme court for answer before rendering its decision. The supreme court set Jan. 7 to hear arguments on the case.

The government, through its special oil counsel, Owen J. Roberts, and Atlee Pomerene, had asked the supreme court to review the whole case on the grounds that it probably would have to do so later and that to do it would save supplication of work.

FLU is now Epidemic!

Compared with 1918, this epidemic, so far, is mild; and yet, in spite of vastly increased capacity, the Vicks laboratories are once more operating night and day to meet the emergency demand for more and more Vicks VapoRub. Over 432,000 jars are now being produced daily.

How best to use Vicks VapoRub

1. AS A PREVENTIVE

Several times a day, insert Vicks up the nostrils. Also melt a little night and morning in a bowl of boiling water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors. This helps to ward off germ-infection.

2. IF A COLD STARTS

If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a laxative and a hot lemonade. Apply hot, wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body-heat, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks also acts through the skin like a poultice. Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

3. AFTER A FLU ATTACK

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is after influenza. Then, more than ever, colds, attacking the weakened system, may lead to bronchitis, sinus-trouble or pneumonia. This is especially true of children or old folks. Heed even the slightest cold as a danger signal. Vicks is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally, and so can be used freely, as often as needed, without upsetting delicate digestions, as too much "dosing" is so apt to do.

Expect Many Changes In National League Outfields

ALL CLUBS HAVE PLANS FOR NEW MEN IN GARDENS

Little Chance That Cubs and Pirates Will Do Re-vamping

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York—(AP)—Uneasy rests the hand that wears the outfielder's glove in the National league in a season in which many changes of baseball personnel will be made.

Only one outfielder in the senior circuit may be regarded as "set." No suggestion has come that the Chicago Cubs will attempt to improve on the combination of Rizzo, Stephenson, Hack Wilson and Kiki Cuyler. No other club is definitely standing pat.

The Pittsburgh Pirates certainly will not interfere with the outfield activities of the Waner brothers but Adam Comorosky, who played half a hundred games for the Buccaners last season, may be given additional responsibility in 1929.

The St. Louis Cardinals lost the services of the hard hitting Walter Rottger after 68 games last year but his broken leg has definitely mended and his batting average of .341 will give him first call on right field. He will go on to left with Ernest Orosco. Finally ousted Taylor Douthitt in the world's series and may repeat the performance in the regular season.

Manager John J. McGraw will assign one of his outfield places to Fred Leach, late of the Phillies. The rest of the outfield trio will depend somewhat on the health of Ed Roush and the showing made by Tony Kauffman, a reformed pitcher, who batted .393 in 52 games for Rochester last season. The Giants have two brilliant prospects in Veltman and Furlis. Melvin Ott will defend his position when right handers pitch against the Giants but may have an understudy when southpaws do the firing.

The outfield at Brooklyn is open. Hendrick who looked like a great outfielder at third base for the Robins may move farther away from the batting cannonade. The Robins purchased or recalled seven outfielders after the National league season closed. They included Culp, Atlanta, and Fredrick, Memphis, whose batting averages in the Southern association were the same, .395; Rosenfield, Birmingham, batting .340, West, Atlanta, with a batting average of .321 and Riehl from the same club where he batted .329.

Nikeballe, recalled from Pueblo, batted .347. Two Mason players recalled were Tromper and Lee, with batting figures of .325 and .327 respectively.

Two Reds who did considerable work in the outfield at Cincinnati last year, Everett Purdy and Martin Callaghan, probably will be even more active in the new season. Walby Christensen, a fast and a great scrobbler, will have a chance to do his tumbling in the spring although he did not reach the select .300 class as a batter for Columbus where his mark was .292.

The Boston Braves will give an outfield assignment to George Washington Harper, formerly of the Philadelphia Phillies and Cardinals and Young Earl Clark should be about ready for duty. The 21-year-old Washington youngster batted .373 for Providence in 1928. Moore and Mueller, former major leaguers, are back again with the Braves. Only one thing is certain about the Boston outfield, one will take Lane Richbourg's place.

The Phillies are counting on Homer Peel, procured from St. Louis in the Wilson deal, to take care of one outfield, although Peel batted only .281 for Houston in the Texas league. Lefty O'Doul, who hit some home runs for the Giants last year, should hit many more in Philadelphia where the right field fence furnishes a good objective.

CHANCE FOR UPSET IN HOCKEY LEAGUE

Montreal Maroons Have Opportunity to Tie for First Place

New York—(AP)—The international group of the National Hockey league, which keeps the interest of the fans at the highest pitch, again supplies the best of the action on Thursday night's card. Four of the five teams in the group are scheduled to play and three of these are in the race.

The Montreal Maroons have a fine opportunity to gain a tie for first place and at the same time get revenge for a 2 to 1 defeat last month by defeating the Boston Bruins. The Maroons are only two points behind the group leaders, the New York Americans, who do not play Thursday night.

Los Canadians of Montreal and the Toronto Maple Leafs, locked in a tie for third place, can break the tie as long as they both do not do the same thing but the prospects are for a pair of victories. The Canadians play Ottawa, last place team in the international division, while the Leafs meet the Chicago Blackhawks, trailers in the American group. The records for the two Canadian teams against these opponents for the season have been perfect, with two shut-out victories for the Canadians and one for Toronto.

The remaining game Thursday night gives the New York Rangers a chance to increase their lead over Detroit and the Pittsburgh Pirates an equal opportunity to get back into a tie for third place in the American group. The Rangers can raise their margin to five points by winning while Pittsburgh must combine a victory over the group leaders with a defeat for Boston to tie the Bruins. Detroit, second place holder in the American group is idle.

What'll He Do to Sharkey?

This K. O. Christner, who only a few weeks ago slapped Knute Hansen down and out in a Cleveland, O., ring, can't be taken too lightly by this Jack Sharkey fellow when they fight in New York soon. It is true that Christner is past the thirty mark and not the most inspiring fighter in the world but it is also true that he has a punch that can rock the strongest of them and it is this punch that Sharkey must watch. This is a new pose of Christner, of Akron, O.

Little Chute, Menasha Skaters Enter Tourney

Appleton Youths Show Little Inclination to Get in Blanks

WHAT happened to Appleton skaters all indications are letting their friends over at Menasha and Little Chute run away with the honors, for the first entry blanks for the seventh annual Post-Crescent Skating tournament, at Jones park, Jan. 13, were from these two cities.

So far Appleton skaters have failed to show any interest despite the fact that all school children have had an opportunity to skate for the last week and have had nothing to do in their spare moments except cut the entry blank from the sports page and mail or bring it to the Post-Crescent office. Last season there were about 65 entries, most of which were from Appleton. This year it appears as though the outsiders are going to cop all the honors.

With a minimum of snow and cold weather which has kept the rink about the city in first class condition, Appleton young people should all be raring to get into competition. They've had plenty of practice and should be very much inclined to put their skill against someone else. The races which are on the books again for this year's meet are the same as those in other years and are just a pleasant romp for most skaters. The Juniors will skate the 220 and 440 yards races, the intermediates the 440 and 880. And of course there are longer races for the older or senior groups.

For the benefit of youngsters who haven't raced before the suggestion for practicing is to skate longer distances for the first few times and then cut them down but increase the speed. The former jaunts will strengthen muscles and develop the wind, the latter will key the skater up to a point where the sustained effort needed to win a race will be easy.

Entry blanks are receivable at the Post-Crescent office until next week Thursday or Friday. That leaves just one week for enthusiasts to get next to themselves and get the blanks in. Come on, gang, the more the merrier.

JOEY SANGOR GIVEN 30 DAY SUSPENSION

Milwaukee—(AP)—Joey Sangor, a Milwaukee boy, who won a 10-round bout, according to the newspaperman's decision, over Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, here New Year's day, has been suspended from the ring for 30 days by the state boxing commission, because of the low blow which he hit Morgan in the fourth round, it was announced Wednesday.

MAY GET WALKER TO BATTLE ACE HUDKINS

New York—(AP)—If matchmaker Tom McArdle can carry through his plans, Mickey Walker will defend his middleweight championship against Ace Hudkins in Madison Square Garden before the end of the present season. McArdle believes he can get Walker's signature on a contract to fight the Nebraska wildcat and announced Thursday that he will ask the approval of the New York State Athletic commission for the match at its meeting Friday. Hudkins is eager for the match and McArdle does not expect any difficulty signing him.

APPLETON HOCKEY TEAM READY FOR COMEBACK BATTLE

Seek Substitutes so That Regulars Will Have Chance to Rest

Despite the fact Appleton Independents lost one and tied one and tied one hocked game over the week-end and New Year's day, the local aggregation isn't a bit disheartened about staging a comeback next Sunday when it meets New London here.

The two games were the first real tussles this season for the Independents and revealed several weaknesses which will be remedied. One of these is a lack of substitutes for the Appleton sextet and as a result the group is searching hockey centers for a couple additional men. Both Neenah and Menasha were able to make substitutions against the Independents and thereby keep fresh men in the game. Andy Foster, playing manager of the team is the person any potential hockey players should see if they wish to try out for the squad.

Sunday's game at Neenah was lost 3 to 0, the Neenahites showing much better than the Appleton team because of previous games. The Menasha game was a little more even and it took several overtime periods before it was decided the boys might play all night without counting the winning point.

The lineup for the Appleton team in the two games showed E. Helm left wing and "Duck" Schultz, right wing, L. Krueger, center, I. Bahl, and H. Wils, defense and A. Foster goal. The men all played stellar hockey and weakened only when their opponents kept sending new men into the fray.

GOOD NEWS FOR ARMY

Howard Sprague, brother of Mortimer Sprague at West Point now, has received an appointment to the academy. He was the whole football team at a Dallas, Tex., high school this year.

Riegel Says He Lost Sense Of Direction

Pasadena, Calif.—(AP)—Loss of his sense of direction was the factor responsible for the run of Capt-elect Roy Riegel toward his own goal in the tournament of roses classic here Tuesday between University of California and Georgia Tech. The Golden Bear center explained to Riegel, denied that he had been hurt and unconscious of what he was doing.

"I was running toward the side lines and when I picked up the ball I started to turn to my left toward Tech's goal," he said. "Somebody shoved me and I bounced right off into a tough tackler. In pivoting to get away from him I completely lost my bearings."

STARRED IN SECOND HALF
"I wasn't out of my head at all and I hadn't been hurt. I think I showed that when I came back in the second half and played through."

HOLD ICE CARNIVAL AGAIN AT WAUSAU

Plan for Five Day Frolic in February; to Rival Lake Placid Meet

Wausau—(AP)—The third annual winter sports frolic here will be held Feb. 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10, Fred G. Wichmann, general chairman, who headed the event in 1927 and 1928, has announced. Mr. Wichmann also is secretary and treasurer of the Wausau Outdoor Sports Club, the group fostering the annual carnival.

Two changes have been made in carnival plans. Mr. Wichmann says, pointing out that it has been reduced from a seven-day affair to a five-day event, and that the dates have been set in Feb. instead of Jan. as has been the case the last two years. The latter change was made because of the lack of snow and ice during this year.

Winter frolic in Wausau have gained an enviable reputation, the event being the largest of the kind in the middle west and is rivaled only by carnivals held in Canada and Lake Placid, N. Y., he says.

The frolic will open with coronation of the carnival queen. "In the course of the five-day frolic, skating races, curling, jumping, hockey, curling and other winter events will hold sway. The queen's coronation, which is being handled by Ed Bassler, will come after a parade under the direction of George W. Phillips. A Mardi Gras carnival is a feature of the week. Mrs. D. C. Everest is in charge of this event."

Occasional has been named chairman of sports events and Harry A. Kiefer has been chosen his assistant, according to General Chairman Wichmann.

Officers of the Wausau Outdoor Sports Club are: Harold A. Gelsner, president; Guy K. Gooding, first vice president; C. Selanget, second vice president; Mr. Wichmann, secretary; treasurer, Victor G. Geisel, assistant secretary, and Walter Schroeder, financial secretary.

Frankie's Fun

Those of you who may wonder how some of the star ball players spend their winter vacation have the question answered by this photograph of Frankie Frisch, of the St. Louis Cardinals. Frisch is shown here, with gun and dog, as he is on a recent hunting trip near Lake Placid in the Adirondack Mountains.

PRINCETON HOCKEY TEAM INVADERS WEST

Princeton, N. J.—(AP)—The warm weather that has prevailed in the east has given Princeton's hockey team its first trip to the middle west. A game with Michigan at Ann Arbor has been scheduled to take the place with the Army contest, originally scheduled for Saturday which was cancelled because of lack of ice. Princeton plays the Nichols club in Buffalo Thursday night and will go from there to Ann Arbor.

COACH LAUDS HIM

"I was amazed when I saw Riegel's running in the wrong direction," he said, "but I'm not blaming the boy. I want his future hurt by the play. It might have happened to any of us. Riegel is the smartest boy on the squad."

"I yanked him immediately after the fatal run because I thought he was hurt. He came to the bench and was terribly dejected, saying he believed this would ruin his life."

"I told him 'Nonsense.' I look for him to be the outstanding player of the Pacific coast next season."

HE CAN HANDLE HIMSELF

George Moriarty, according to baseball shop talk, will be in a tough spot next season when he goes back to umpiring in the American League. Some of his friends thought he should have gone over to the other league if he wanted to go back to a job that is none too soft when the ball players haven't anything to call to an umpire's attention.

Hank O'Day at one time quit umpiring in the National League and tried to manage the Cincinnati Reds. He didn't fit in a managerial job and went back to umpiring without any serious consequences.

But old Hank didn't have any personal troubles with the players of the Cincinnati club or he did not become involved in any personal feuds with the players on the other club.

It's a good bet, though, that any of the ball players who start something with the former Detroit manager had better be prepared to finish it because George is a very good finisher.

WE MUST HAVE CHANGES

Football has a monopoly for years on the delicate trade of tinkering with the rules and after all those years of experimentation the game seems to have been transformed into a very satisfactory one.

The coaches still grumble to have the posts set back on the goal line and there have been some suggestions that a fumbled ball should become a dead ball at the spot where it is recovered. But there will be no violent agitation about either suggestion.

Basketball has gone through the same years of experimentation and has dropped.

CURRIES BOWL TO WIN OVER KUNITZ FAMILY TUESDAY

But Oscar and Carl Beat Dan Steinberg and Son Dan, Jr.

MY Pa and our kids are better bowlers than your Pa and your kids.

Perhaps that is what the Currie family is saying to the Kunitz family whenever members meet following a family bowling match New Years day on Elk club alleys. The Currie family topped 1,523 pins and the Kunitz family 1,478.

An interesting feature of the match was the fact that one member of the Currie family bowling team was a young lady, Miss Louise Currie, and she crashed through in big league style with a 490 from gangs of 154, 168 and 158.

Scores from the Kunitz-Currie match follow:

KUNITZ FAMILY
Carl Kunitz ..... 111 189 170 470
Bob Kunitz ..... 143 174 176 493
Oscar Kunitz ..... 156 202 157 515
Totals ..... 410 565 503 1478

CURRIE FAMILY

Louise Currie ..... 154 168 158 480
Clarence Currie ..... 184 183 181 548
Totals ..... 506 501 521 1528

However, the Kunitz family, or at least Pa Kunitz and one of his youngsters, Carl, is better than Pa Steinberg and his youngster Dan. The four bowled Wednesday evening on the Elk alleys and both the Kunitz hit 502 for a total of 1,004, while Dan Sr., and Dan Jr., collectively, pounded out only 962 pins.

Their scores follow:

KUNITZ AND SON
O. Kunitz ..... 361 125 188 502
C. Kunitz ..... 183 154 160 502

MICHIGAN CAGERS ROUT CORNELL "5"

Beloit College Holds University of Chicago to 20 to 16 Score

Chicago—(AP)—Gaining momentum with each contact, Michigan's big maize and blue machine Thursday ranked as a dangerous threat to other aspirants for the Big Ten basketball championship.

Chicago came through to defeat Beloit college of Wisconsin, 20 to 16, but its play was loose and the Maroons appeared far from ready. Both teams tried to score from all angles and from all sections of the floor, and their teamwork was ragged.

Iowa's hopes of a victorious start in the championship race against Ohio State Saturday night have been dimmed by the probable loss of two guards, Virgil David and Fred Forrest. Two good, senior forward, also has been out of uniform for two weeks and may not get into the game.

Around The Sport World

like football, it has been developed into a very satisfactory game. The survival of football and basketball under all the operations of the legal surgeons and their recovery to even better health, admittedly caused John Heydler, to make his ten-man baseball suggestion.

He had reasons to tell the magistrates that football had reached unprecedented popularity because the rule makers of the game had considered the taste of the customers and had been influenced by the changes in times which demanded changing styles of the game.

GET FLAPPERISH, BASEBALL! He argued that baseball had not kept up with the times. And it has not been modernized on other sports unless the introduction of the rabbit ball is termed as an innovation. The hockey people have been considering changes in the rules that would promote increased scoring and it has been suggested this year that forward passes be allowed in the zone in front of the goals.

Boxing regulations have changed and are changing, the sport until only the fundamentals of the old Queensbury code will remain. Some of the customers complain, however, that boxing is being made into a molly game and they take heart when a young fellow like Ace Hudkins steps forward with a suggestion.

The Ace suggests that the minute of rest between rounds be eliminated and that the gladiatorial proceed to carve each other until one of them has dropped.

Blocked Punts Result In Many Touchdowns

BY BOB MATHERNE
The record book for 1928 football may show a greater number of kicks blocked and recovered for touchdowns, but there is no reason to believe, judging from what 60 teams accomplished, that the number of punts returned for touchdowns will be any greater than in 1927.

One can't assume that reports from 60 representative elevens mean everything on which to write a statistical story, but one can assume this a fair proportion to indicate what all the teams did this past season.

The records show that 32 kicks were blocked and converted into touchdowns in 1926 and 36 in 1928. From reports of 60 elevens for this fall, we run across 14 such plays. From that, one gets the idea that the 250-odd elevens unheard from might have made enough such plays to beat the best record of previous years.

SCORED TWICE
Only one member of the 60 squads heard from smeared two punts and made touchdowns from them. Jordan, North Carolina State end, recovered blocked punts against Florida and North Carolina and scampered away for touchdowns.

One of the blocked kicks won a conference championship. Incidentally, it was the second touchdown made by this player, Macmillan of North Dakota. In seven years of play, he performed the trick against South Dakota, making the lone touchdown of the game and winning a championship by the feat.

Others to recover blocked kicks for touchdowns include Swarthout of Dartmouth; Schaller of Denison; Thompson of Chattanooga; Brown of

KIMBERLY MEETS LITTLE CHUTERS

High School Teams Will Clash Friday in Annual Grudge Battle

Kimberly—On Friday evening, the Little Chute high school cagers invade Kimberly in a game which promises to be one of the seasons most interesting "Little Nine" contrasts.

This is one game of the year in which the people of both villages turn out to see. This game of ancient and bitter, rivals has gotten to be an annual affair. In previous years Little Chute seemed to have the edge. Last year in a five-minute overtime period they beat the K. H. S. squad 17 to 15. This year the teams are evenly matched and will give the fans something interesting. The Kimberly boys have been practicing steadily and are just raring to go—and beat Little Chute. No doubt Little Chute feels the same way. In all respects the game gives promise to be a great and thrilling one.

Lefty's Aces will furnish a fast preliminary. The first game starts at 7:15.

LEANS TOWARD BOXING
Bobby Hooks, University of Georgia football star for three years, may turn to boxing as a profession. He is a light heavyweight.

Another invasion of Big Ten cagers was repelled Wednesday night when Ohio State's undefeated team sank North Carolina, 43 to 30, at Columbus.

Chicago came through to defeat Beloit college of Wisconsin, 20 to 16, but its play was loose and the Maroons appeared far from ready. Both teams tried to score from all angles and from all sections of the floor, and their teamwork was ragged.

Iowa's hopes of a victorious start in the championship race against Ohio State Saturday night have been dimmed by the probable loss of two guards, Virgil David and Fred Forrest. Two good, senior forward, also has been out of uniform for two weeks and may not get into the game.

Previous to the regular meeting at which officers for the coming year will be elected, the green section committee will meet. Three sessions, the first Friday morning, will be devoted to discussion of the problems of the greenkeepers.

Detroit—Soldier Dombrowski, Detroit, outpunched Bobby Booth, Toronto, (10.)

13 CONVENTIONS IN MILWAUKEE IN MONTH

College Presidents Will Hold Meet There Sometime in January

Milwaukee —(AP)—The first month of the new year will bring 13 state conventions to Milwaukee, according to H. O. Wood, chairman of the convention committee of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

The Wisconsin Fox Breeders met at the Wisconsin hotel, Jan. 2, with about 35 members in attendance. Starting the same day and continuing through Jan. 4, nearly 300 members of the Wisconsin association of fairs are meeting here.

The district officers conference of the Wisconsin and Upper Michigan Kiwanis clubs will hold a two-day meeting beginning Jan. 8. About 150 members are expected to attend. Nearly 500 ice cream manufacturers have set aside the same days for their state meetings here.

Five hundred Associated Wisconsin Contractors are expected to attend the annual meeting Jan. 9 and 10, and on the latter day the Wisconsin Concrete Products association will begin a two-day meeting. The attendance is expected to reach the 300 mark.

Two conventions will be held January 15. The Milwaukee Traffic club and the Milwaukee Milk Products association are scheduled with 500 and 700 persons expected at the respective meetings.

Officers and committee chairmen of the county associations of the Wisconsin Bankers' association will convene Jan. 21 with 125 members. The next day 350 persons are expected to attend the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association meeting.

The final two days of the month will witness the conventions of the Wisconsin Master Plumbers which will draw 400 persons and the annual council of the Episcopal Diocese of Milwaukee.

Irving Maurer, joint college secretary of the Wisconsin Association of College Presidents, announced the group will meet here this month, but the date has not been set.

94 FIXTURES ADDED TO PLUMBING SYSTEM

There were 94 fixtures added to the plumbing system in the city in December, according to the monthly report of George Gauslin, plumbing inspector. The amount accruing to the city for the permits was $47.

Two permits were issued for opening trenches. Nine of the trenches were for sewers, one was for sewer repair, and two were for water service connection.

Lawrence Cagers Should Be Dubbed "The Nomads"

Have Wandered All Over Valley During Last Week Seeking Gyms

No longer can they call the Lawrence college basketball squad Vikings, for the name Nomads would fit them better as they wander about the country seeking a gymnasium of respectable size in which to practice.

The Vikings—or Nomads—meet Hamline university in the armory Friday night and as it is customary to hold long practice sessions before the first game Coach A. C. Denney has been forced to take his charges most everywhere in the Fox River valley.

To date they've practiced at Green Bay, Kimberly, Appleton and Neenah. Sometimes they've been at Neenah in the morning and Kimberly in the afternoon or vice versa. All in all it's been a lot of "pleasure" seeking a practice court.

And whether Denney has a basketball team cannot be said until after Friday's tussle. His squad lost two games by one point during the practice period and won a couple by terrible scores, 69 to 3 and 31 to 5 for instance, so that the longer they played the less an onlooker learned about them.

Just who Denney will start against the Minnesotans when they invade the city Friday is as big a question as where he'll hold his next practice. Indications are that Biggers and Jerry Slavik will be at forwards with Ken Laird at center.

OIL RESOLUTION STILL HANGS FIRE

Measure to Reduce Cost of Street Oiling Is Referred Back to Committee

Alderman W. H. Vander Heyden's oil resolution, providing for a reduction in the cost and a rebate to property owners on all streets oiled last summer except those for which the oil had been petitioned, almost got by the council Wednesday night.

The measure, which he has been pounding away at for several weeks, was included in the report of the streets and bridges committee and recommended for adoption, but before a vote was called, this part of the report was referred back to the committee with instructions to report again on the resolution at the next meeting.

The resolution read: "That the special street oiling tax as now entered on the official records be rebated, except where same was done by petition, and the special street oiling tax as now charged be seriously considered by the rebate committee and that the cost of oiling be placed at 10 cents per lineal foot on all streets oiled by petition."

The resolution was referred back to the streets and bridges committee after Mayor A. C. Rule and several aldermen had questioned the advisability of attempting to make exceptions in the charges for street oiling.

"Men Of The South Pole"

While Captain Scott and his party had marched to within 97 miles of the South Pole, another expedition from his ship had made a terrific journey over treacherous ice fields and discovered the South Magnetic Pole. In the party were Dr. Douglas Mawson, Prof. T. W. Edgeworth David and Dr. A. F. Mackay.

Mawson once fell into a crevasse. Held up by his harness, he picked ice crystals from a new formation and tossed them up as specimens.

Mawson's bravery and accomplishments on this trip and succeeding ventures won him the honor of knighthood.

His famous march of the summer of 1912 is an epic of terror and triumph. He set out that year with dog teams, his companions being Xavier Mertz, champion Swiss ski-runner, and Lieutenant Ninnis, a towering young Englishman. During the agonizing march, Ninnis was killed in a fall into one of the bottomless crevasses of the Antarctic. (To Be Continued)

MAYOR TALKS ON NEED FOR LAW CHANGES

Wendlandt Would Alter City Ordinances to Remove Old Conflicts

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—At the council meeting Wednesday evening at the city hall the talk given by Mayor Wendlandt centered about this year's tax budget, the necessity of certain changes in the ordinances pertaining to the board of review and to the city cemetery commission. The mayor quoted figures pointing out the sound financial of the latter.

Taking figures from the years 1925-27, the mayor showed that while in 1925 the income was $653 and the expenses $2,021, the latter had changed until in the year just passed, the receipts were 1,900 and expenditures were $3,300. The mayor expressed his belief that before many years receipts would be higher than the cost of maintaining this municipally owned cemetery. He warned the aldermen that the water problem connected with the cemetery must be taken care of in the future, stating that this is a proposition which will have to be met sooner or later.

At present there are three commissioners appointed by the mayor, who are charged with the care of the cemetery. Mr. Wendlandt believes that this commission should be changed so that the city treasurer should be an ex-officio member. At present the city treasurer handles the finances pertaining to the cemetery funds. He also suggested that provision should be made that the cemetery aldermen should be invested in such bonds which would comply with state laws and to be sure of this he recommended that all bonds purchased would be passed upon by the cashiers of the city's three banks.

WOULD CHANGE DATE
To simplify work for the aldermen in preparing the city's budget, Mr. Wendlandt asked that the yearly report from the cemetery commission be changed so that it would be presented to the council in October instead of in March.

Subject to the confirmation of the council Mayor Wendlandt reappointed M. C. Trayer, G. Vandree and Mrs. M. C. Boland to act as the cemetery commission. The commission thinks it necessary that the roads in the cemetery should be narrowed, the space thus saved would be platted into new lots, the narrowing of the drives at present to be confined to the north half of the cemetery, thus bringing about a more compact formation of the grounds.

Conflicting ordinances relative to the board of review were pointed out by Mr. Wendlandt, who by reading over various ordinances found that while the city's law says that aldermen may serve on this board, that another ordinance prohibits them from receiving a salary for work rendered the city as long as they at the same time receive a wage as aldermen.

INCREASE BOND
Bonds were again taken out for the treasurer and clerk and an additional $50,000 bond was taken out for the city clerk during the period of tax collecting. Alderman Knappstein called the council's attention to the slanting sidewalks on S. Pearl-st. in front of the new Standard Oil station. Complaints were received by pedestrians concerning the ice on the sloping walk. Alderman Behm also mentioned the same condition on N. Water-st and Shawano-st. It is expected that this will have to be remedied when weather conditions permit.

Mr. Wendlandt circulated copies of the city's budget as previously outlined to each councilman present, cautioning each city representative to adhere strictly to the plan for city expenditures during the coming year.

REMOVES DAMAGE DONE BY STORM LAST YEAR

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—Work of clearing trees broken by the cyclonic storm last summer and many dead trees and stumps in the tract of land in the southeastern part of the city, known as "The Pines," has been completed recently by Nicholas Dwyer. Mr. Dwyer last summer purchased the residence formerly owned and occupied by Mrs. M. S. Graham, situated on the southeast corner of the Pines, and undertook the clearing of his own property. About twenty-five cords of cut wood were realized from this work. Old sheds and a barn which stood on the residence lot have been torn down and a new two car garage is being erected in their place. Much of the work on this building is being done by Mr. Dwyer himself, who expects to have the garage ready for use soon.

REVAMP MAGAZINE DEPARTMENT FOR PUBLIC LIBRARY

Circulation of Publications Growing Constantly, Librarian Says

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—Cataloging magazines and rearranging the magazine department at the city library have been conducted during the holiday week under the direction of Miss Alice Freilburger, librarian. Magazines for the current month are placed on the reference table and cannot be drawn until the first of the following month. All previous issues placed in circulation will be filed on a magazine rack at the west of the north wing. Magazines for the past years will be found on shelves at the southwest of the children's reading room. According to Miss Freilburger, there are 40 magazines on the library list, including the Country Gentleman, Pictorial Review, The American Girl, and Children, a magazine for parents dealing with child psychology.

Among the most recent magazines placed on the list are The Drama, The Country Gentleman, Pictorial Review, The American Girl, and Children, a magazine for parents dealing with child psychology.

The following books were recently donated to the library: The Plover Woman, Gates, donated by Albert Finger; The Daily News Almanac and Year Book for 1928, donated by Milton Mehler; The Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue, donated by the Rev. F. S. Dayton. The following German volumes were donated by Gordon Kodill of Sugar Bush, Brefflung, Die Harfe Gottes, and Schopfung, all by J. F. Rutherford.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MARKETS

MARKET TENDENCY CONTINUES HIGHER

Narrow Price Changes Predominate During Early Trading Hours

New York.—(P)—The main price tendency continued upward at the opening of Thursday's stock market, but most of the price changes were narrow. Purify Bakeries advanced ½ points. Kolster Radio 3. Radio 4, and Chrysler 12. All other chemicals dropped 2½ points and General Electric 1¼.

Operators for the rise apparently were not concerned with the federal reserve and stock exchange lumber loan figures to be announced after the close of the market. The reduction in call money Wednesday and the record-breaking dividend interest disbursements this month helped to generate bullish enthusiasm. Several foreign traders, who were reported to have "cleaned the market more than of 1928 were said to be back in the market on a large scale.

Several blocks of $200 to 12,000 shares changed hands in the early trading. International Telephone stocks ran up 3 points to a new high record at 205¾. Westinghouse climbed 6½ to a new top at 149½ and Union Carbide 4 to a high record at 84½. Among the many other issues to sell at higher prices since 1927, or longer ago, were E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Famous Lasky, Continental Motors, Overseas, Electric Auto Lite, International Nickel (new), Nevada Copper National Baitline Preferred and Kennecott Copper, the early ones ranging from fractions to nearly 3 points.

Abraham and Straus, with an early gain of 4 points, led a brisk advance in the merchandising group. The big gains here were noted in the food, public utility, music, paint, railroad equipment and steel groups. New York Central assumed leadership of the rail group with an early gain of 3 points.

Foreign exchanges opened steady with sterling cables unchanged at 85½.

CONTRACTORS HAD GOOD BUSINESS DURING LAST YEAR

Report That Many New Homes Were Built in City in 1928

Appleton building contractors experienced good business in 1928 and have expectations of the same and very likely better business in 1929, a review of contractors indicates.

According to George H. Beckley, secretary of the Appleton Building and Loan association, that firm transacted in the neighborhood of a half million dollars' worth of business in 1928. It was the largest amount of business of any in the past decade, Mr. Beckley said.

One feature of the loans made by the building company was that about 60 per cent of them were made for remodeling old homes and only 40 per cent of the loans were made for the building of new homes. Mr. Beckley said he expects the business will be better in 1929. He said there had been very few delinquents and practically no lapses of payments in his business.

New homes erected in Appleton during the last year were medium priced, ranging from $5,000 to $10,000 in cost, with an average of about $8,000, according to several contractors. Only one contractor said he could not yet estimate exactly the amount of business he did in 1928 but that he thought it would be about the same as in 1927.

All the other contractors said they had experienced an increase in the amount of business transacted during the past year.

The contractors also agreed that the fact that a presidential election was held in 1928 made no difference in the amount of business they did. Several said that presidential elections no longer made any difference in business as was evidenced by the fact that their books showed increases in 1928 as compared to several years previous.

While many Appleton people were building new homes or remodeling old ones the contractors said that further evidences of good times and prosperity were shown by the fact that all payments were met regularly and that there was little difficulty in collecting payments that had lagged slightly.

The fact that so many new homes were built in the city during the past year would indicate that the employment situation was very satisfactory, the contractors agreed.

While there are no outstanding reasons for predicting better business in 1929 yet the contractors agreed, almost unanimously, that they confidently were expecting that such would be the case.

FEWER FLU CASES IN WESTERN STATES

But Disease Is Gaining Ground in East—Danger Still in Evidence

Washington—(P)—Influenza is believed to be decreasing in most of the states west of the Mississippi river and increasing east of the Mississippi. A warning against optimism was seen, however, in reiteration by the public health service of the possibility of a second and more severe wave of the disease later in the winter. It was recalled that in 1918 there was at first a widespread outbreak, most of the cases being mild, but then it came again and this time the malady was virulent in its nature.

Reports from 24 states and New York city for the week ending Dec. 29, showed 90,000 new cases, as compared with 168,000 cases in the same states and New York city for the previous week.

"This, however," officials of the public health service said, "would not substantiate the belief that a second and more severe wave may follow this one later in the winter." Despite the apparent decrease in the country as a whole, plans are being made for a national conference on influenza to be held here this month. Health service officials said that figures in states not yet reported might bring the total for the week of Dec. 29 up to that of the previous week. It was also pointed out that the holidays might have interfered with reporting.

Practically all the states reporting decreases were west of the Mississippi. Iowa dropped from an estimate of 85,000 to 27,000; Montana from 4,611 to 623; Kansas from 17,617 to 11,953; Wisconsin from 14,724 to 4,698.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole. Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

TO MOTHERS: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

DANE-CO VILLAGE WITHOUT MARSHAL FOR THREE YEARS

Waunakee—(P)—This Dane county village lays claims to being almost perfect as far as law-abiding citizenry goes.

For nearly three years Waunakee has had no town marshal except for a short period a year ago when M. P. Corcoran became waterworks chief and took the marshalship for a short period.

The only peace officer here is Ray Rowley, constable, but his duties are to serve legal papers. S. W. Wilson, was Waunakee's marshal until three years ago when his duties for a railroad here demanded all his time. He resigned and no successor has been named.

Your Figure, Madame!

EIGHT out of ten women are too full in the hips—a figure fault that can be modified with ease in this supremely smart Redfern Corsette*. Fashioned of rich Rayon jersey . . . four extra wide panels of strong silk knit elastic persuasively reduce excess weight at the hips . . . the skilful cut of the brassiere top rounds the bust beautifully. A garment that is perfect in fit—utterly comfortable, and miraculously smoothes the silhouette to a more slender outline. $10.

To find style—exclusive style, wear a Redfern foundation garment. To be fitted—and fitted well, use the expert advice of our trained Corsetieres.
